I bought $30,000 five per cent terminal bonds yesterday. All talk of reorganizing the road is nonsense.

RAZZLE DAZZLE,

Or How McKinley Bucked the Farmer.

Some Interesting Questions on the Wool Business.

The Farmer no Longer to be Duped.

The Tariff on Wool Decreased the Price.

The Wool Trimmings to His Tin Armor Cannot Reduce the Friction for the Sage from Canton.

St. Louis, July 28.—The wool growers are beginning to ask why their clip of wool this year is worth, on an average, from 2 to 5 cents less per pound than it was last year.

They want to know why the McKinley tariff has not increased the price as they were promised it would.

They want to know if it is not the cause of the decrease, and that, too, in spite of the fact that the clip is less this year than last.

They want to know why, with a 9-per-cent. increase in the tariff on wool, there is a 10-per-cent. decrease in its price in one year after the passage of the tariff act.

Is it because the manufacturers, anticipating an increase in the price of wool, cipating an increase in the price of wool, bought an oversupply, and now have on hand as much as they have orders for? Or is it because they are importing yarn instead of raw materials as formerly and thus defeating the pretended purpose of the McKinley bill?

Another question they ask is this: Have not we been hoodwinked in the deal that increased the duty on manufactured goods 24 per cent. and on raw wool 9 per cent? Is there not some trick about it which makes us pay 15 per cent. more for our clothing than we would receive for our wool if the McKinley bill had done all that was promised?

To find out something about these things a reparter called on a number of local wool merchants to obtain their views about the matter. They all said that the McKinley bill was responsible.

When it was passed the manufacturers scraped together all the capital they could raise and imported heavily and bought largely of domestic dealers, by nearly double what they could use, or enough to last them a couple of years. Thus, when this year's clip was put on the market there was no demand for it, and the price went way down.

Then again, the manufacturers import foreign yarns for a great part of their work, claiming that the kind of wool necessary to make them is not raised in this country.

Then a claim made by the manufacturers concerning Ohio, Michigan and Pennsylvania wools, which have decreased 5 per cent. in price, is that they shrink so much in washing that they can't afford to use them.

Mr. Ed McKenna of McKenna Bros., 14 South Main street, said: "Why, the McKinley bill is responsible for the whole thing. It's just like a man getting on a tear. He feels fine while the stimulants' first effects are felt, but then he has to suffer the 'katzenyammer' afterwards. The tariff gave the wool trade an unnatural stimulus. It unbalanced for a time the operation of the law of supply and demand.

Anything which does that affects the market seriously. In anticipation of high prices of wool under the tariff, manufacturers made tremendous importations, overstocking themselves before the law went into effect.

The importations last year over the year before were 33 per cent. Dealers and growers in this country, under the same anticipation, held their wool off the market till the bill went into effect.

The result was that when they offered their wool for sale there was no demand for it at all, and the price paid was only what the buyer cared to pay. In the meantime this year's clip has come on the market, and here we are with one year's surplus on hand and no demand hardly for it.

So you see the promised high prices under the McKinley tariff do not materialize. Instead of home-grown wool rising 9 per cent. in price, which is the rate of the tariff's increase on wool, it has fallen on an average of 2 per cent. Why? Well, I have already told you partly why, but there is another feature.

"The manufacturer has to have grades of wool we do not have here. But the grower is not supposed to know anything about this, and to make a tariff in favor of the importation of such wools would open his eyes on the wool tariff, so the protectionist tells him that to insure him a good market for his wool they must put a prohibitive duty on clothing and they increased it to 24 per cent.

"That enables the manufacturer to import the wools and yarns which he must have and we do not produce. But it leaves the wool-grower under the impression that the tariff on wool is increased 9 per cent. to raise the price of his wool, and that the tariff is raised 24 per cent. on clothing to make a market for his wool, while the truth is that the 9-per-cent. tariff on wool is made to increase republican votes and the 24-per-cent. tariff is made to increase the amount of 'fat' the manufacturers are to contribute to the campaign fund of the republicans next year.

"Thus the grower is hoodwinked both ways. But it is the history of all tariffs that they decrease the price of home-grown wool. Following the tariff of 1867, which was the highest ever known, wool declined 12 cents a pound in three years under conditions something similar to the present time.

"On the contrary, taking the duty off wool in 1857 advanced the price, because the home growers, instead of holding back their product in anticipation of high prices, rushed it onto the market in anticipation of low prices, and consequently when the new clip came in there was a big demand for it because buyers could only get so much in the world's market, because that is regulated by the laws of supply and demand, as all markets should be. Any tampering with them unsettles the market and makes trade unsteady.

"Now about Ohio and Michigan wools, which are 5 cents cheaper than last year, another cause operates: Australian wool is very cheap, and our territory wools are cheaper, and the manufacturers import Australian wools and mix cheap territory and wild wools with them and make a wool that answers for the Ohio and Michigan wool and cheaper, although they try to make out other reasons, such as that the Ohio and Michigan wool-growers are neglecting their sheep, but it is not true.

"A two-years' stock of Australian wool was imported into this country just before the McKinley tariff went into effect. A great deal of it is handled here. Outside of Boston, St. Louis is the largest wool market in the country—that is, of domestic wool. Two houses here handled more wool than Chicago or New York. New York handles a good deal of foreign wool and Boston makes the prices for this country."

REPORTS EXAGGERATED.

Latest News from the Affairs in Chili.

New York, July 28.—The Herald to-day prints the following dispatch from Coquimbo, Chili:

The report that has been sent out to foreign countries about an engagement at Huasco, in which the congressional troops were routed, is without foundation. There was no such engagement. The Junta have landed 4,000 men there, intending to make an advance upon the south. Since their landing they have not met the Balmacedists.

In regard to the victory of the government troops at Valienar, it has been greatly exaggerated. It had very little importance. As I have already cabled you, however, there is a general belief here that a fight will take place in this vicinity within a short time.

Enforcing the Law.

Gloucester, Mass., July 28.—The fish wardens of the state of Maine are enforcing the mile limit law, according to reports of vessels arriving here.

The boat Edith L., among others, reports that on Friday and Saturday while fishing off Old Orchard beach with a seine, she was boarded by state officials and warned to desist from seining operations, otherwise the officers threatened to make a prize of the craft and tow her into port. Similar warning, it is said, was given to the other boats, and with the result that fishing operations were abandoned and the craft are returning home.

Taken to an Asylum.

Baltimore, July 28.—Last evening Kate Kenny, 40 years old, arrived here on the B. & O. Chicago express and was taken to the station house insane. She came here from San Francisco and had a steerage ticket to Liverpool on the White Star line. A slip of paper with the name of Morgan, living on Clark street, New York, was found in her pocket.

A Fight to Death.

Mt. Morris, N. Y., July 28.—A gang of Italians and Polacks, numbering over a dozen, belonging at the Greigville salt shift, engaged in a free fight with knives and stones while waiting for a train here Saturday. Three of the Italians and two of the Polacks were stabbed. Two of the Italians were seriously injured and one may die. A number of arrests were made.

A SENSATION AT FINDLAY.

A Merchant Who Had Two Wives.

A Law Suit Brought Out a Man's Dual Life.

Claimed in Findlay that the Republicans Have Known of the Hyatt Steal for Months.

Findlay, O., July 28.—(Special)—Residents of this city were given a wholesale sensation last evening by the announcement that Peter E. Williams, a well-known lumber dealer throughout northwestern Ohio, had two wives, one living here and the other at Fostoria.

The facts as gleaned by the BEE correspondent are of the most sensational nature, and show Williams as a man of monumental gall. He is well to do and has an extensive business which has won for him a large acquaintance.

It appears that some time ago he gave a mortgage on his property in this city to parties in Fostoria.

The claim fell due a few weeks since, but Williams was unable to meet the demand of his creditors and an attachment was placed upon his real estate and other valuables.

The action was brought by A. L. Thomas, of Fostoria, against John Wren, a constable of this place, who had issued the attachment and who was still in possession of the property by an order issued on the grounds that Williams was not a resident of this county.

The action came up for hearing before Justice Arfard yesterday morning and many witnesses were summoned to testify as to Williams' residence.

Five came from Fostoria and all knew of Williams at that place and were also aware that he was a married man and had a wife and two children living there.

The Findlay people were acquainted with Williams equally as well and knew of another wife and family who resided on Liberty street, this city.

Shortly before the hour announced for the trial to commence it was noised about the court room that Williams was a much married man, and there were many rumors going the rounds.

At first it was thought to be a hoax and the people never realized the situation until late yesterday afternoon.

Williams, it appears, became aware of the circle of evidence that was about to be sprung, and through his attorneys asked for an adjournment until the afternoon.

This was granted, and at the opening a friend of Williams' put in an appearance and settled the case.

The sudden turn in affairs somewhat startled those interested in the matter and further investigation revealed the fact that Williams had two wives.

An effort was immediately made to find him, but no one had seen or heard of him since the adjournment in the morning.

Hyatt's Stolen Office.

There is any amount of speculation just now as to the work of the state board of equalization, and the possibility of the counties whose taxes were advanced raising a question as to the validity of the board's actions.

It was gleaned from some of Mr. Hyatt's most intimate friends that the recent action of the committee from Toledo and his resigning were all arranged some time ago.

Hyatt knew that the committee would come to Findlay, in fact he had previously arranged for their comforts at the Joy house and had planned his resignation which was published in the BEE.

Mr. Hyatt has given it out that the republicans knew of the fraud several months ago, but for political reasons, which he will not divulge, the affair was hushed up.

Messrs. Ryan and Poe were aware of the fraudulent actions, but disregarded them until they were forced to the wall, and now under more brazen colors than ever come out and plead innocence.

They are denounced in most bitter terms by the Republicans of Findlay and Hancock county.

It is stated by the best of authority that Hyatt blames the fraud on a clerk whom he claims made the mistake.

The error was soon discovered, but through the efforts of Ryan and Poe it was kept quiet.

The state board of equalization has but three days more work, when they will adjourn. Mr. Hyatt in the meantime will remain in Findlay, while Mr. Warren will serve the remainder of the term.

In England leaflets are being distributed on the subject of the destruction of crops in the rural districts. Posters showing magnified illustrations of the Hessian fly and the winter moth are being displayed in the postoffices to enable farmers to recognize them.

Will Not Come.

Boston, July 28.—Ex-President Cleveland says he has not been invited to stump Ohio and could not go if he had been.

MEANS PRISON FOR LIFE.

W. J. Elliott Guilty of Murder in the Second Degree.

Editor Osborn's Blood on His Hands.

The Convicted Man Throws His Grand Army Button at the Jury When He Hears the Verdict.

Columbus, O., July 28.—The long, anxious wait of the Elliott jury is at an end. At 10:20 this morning the jury filed into the court room and announced that William J. Elliott had been found guilty of murder in the second degree for the killing of Albert C. Osborn on the 23d of February last.

The verdict is no surprise as the long wait of the 12 men in their room had given out the impression that there was some doubt as to the grade of the crime and that if there was not some disagreement the verdict would be as rendered this morning.

Judge Pugh arrived at the court house about 9 o'clock, and as he received no advice that the jury was ready to report to him, he repaired to his private room to await their call.

Gen. Powell, Col. Taylor and Capt. Barger, counsel for the defense, arrived a few minutes before 10 o'clock and after lingering a few minutes in the corridor, entered the court room and took their accustomed positions in front of the judge's bench.

Just after them entered Judge Pugh. Coming to the door he called out to Doorkeeper Wilson, who was back in the room presumably to have him prepare to resist the rush of the great mob out in the corridors.

The next instant Sheriff Custer, Deputies Ross and Carpenter entered and took positions over where the prisoner sits, thus adding new evidence that the jury was ready to come down.

A minute or two later Mrs. W. J. Elliott and children, Miss Maroney, her sister, and Mr. Maroney, her brother, came in. At 10:10 Deputy Marvin Custer entered through the closed passageway from the jail with the prisoner.

W. J. Elliott wore a look of intense anxiety and appeared somewhat nervous. While waiting for the jury to be brought in he held an earnest conversation with his attorneys. He was holding his youngest boy on his knee when the jury filed into the box to make known the seal of fate which had been stamped upon his future life.

Judge Pugh entered and ascended to the bench at 10:20, and was closely followed by the jury. The crowd in the corridor made a scramble to gain admission to the already packed court room, and there was not breathing room scarcely when a couple of hundred more persons squeezed in.

All being ready, Judge Pugh directed Criminal Clerk Mitchell to call the roll, and this being done, Judge Pugh inquired if they had agreed on a verdict, which brought out the response from Foreman Pegg, "We have." Judge Pugh then asked that the verdict be handed up, which was done.

Judge Pugh held the verdict in his left hand and drew the entry in the criminal docket. As he handed the verdict to Clerk Mitchell to be read, he admonished the audience not to indulge in any demonstrations.

The suspense of the great crowd was intense while Clerk Mitchell read the preliminary lines of the verdict.

When that point was reached where the verdict read, "We, the jury, etc., find the defendant, W. J. Elliott," Miss Nellie Maroney screamed out and fell back in her brother's arms in a faint, she evidently expected the next words would be "guilty of murder in the first degree."

Clerk Mitchell paused for a few seconds and then went on to read "not guilty of murder in the first degree, but do find him guily of murder in the second degree." When these words were spoken Elliott pulled his Grand Army button from the buttonhole in the lappel of his coat and threw it viciously at the jury.

Instead of weakening, W. J. Elliott grew more revengeful, and his face took on a look of the wildest anger.

Mrs. Elliott did not shed a tear, but the excitement was so great that she probably could not realize at the time what the verdict meant.

The children all began to cry when Miss Maroney fainted. The scene was a most heartrending one, and brought tears to the eyes of Foreman Pegg, while the other members of the jury bowed their heads in mournful silence.

When the jury was polled and each in turn were asked if "the verdict just read was their verdict," Claude C. Aubert responded, "Yes sir," in a stronger, firmer voice than any of the other jurors, thus indicating that he has stood from the first for murder in the second degree.

The jury have vowed that they will never disclose how they stood on any of the ballots and thus it will probably never be positively known who the dissenters were.

By the laws of Ohio, murder in the second degree is punishable by life imprisonment, the court having no alternative in the matter.

Notice of motion for a new trial was made and so sentence was not passed. Court fixed next Saturday as the time for hearing arguments on the motion for a new trial.

The following companies were refused certificates of admission to this state: National Benevolent Association, Minneapolis; Bankers' and Traders' Accident Association, New York; Connecticut Indemnity Association, Waterbury, Conn.

CANADIAN INDEPENDENCE.

A Bold Move Soon to be Made.

Premier Mercier Will Convene the Provincial Legislature to Consider the Subject.

New York, July 28.—A special from Quebec to the Recorder says: Premier Mercier will call the provincial legislature together in September and introduce a resolution in support of Canadian independence, as opposed to imperial federation.

Sudden Death at Norwalk.

Norwalk, July 28.—(Special)—Janet White, wife of ex-Mayor O. A. White, died this morning of neuralgia of the heart. Death was very sudden, as she had not been sick. She was one of the oldest residents of this city.

TO BALANCE THE ACCOUNT.

Foster Trying to Help Out the Last Congress.

Washington, July 28.—The secretary of the treasury to-day formally approved reductions in the force and reductions in salaries of employes in the collector's office in New York city, which will reduce the pay roll fully $87,000 per annum.

One deputy collector at a salary of $3,000 a year, a chief clerk at $2,000 a year and about sixty clerks, messengers, watchmen, engineers and laborers will be dismissed on the 1st of August in accordance with the recommendation of Collector Erhardt, which were approved to-day.

Exposition at Vienna.

Washington, July 28.—Mr. Wharton, assistant secretary of state, received from the United States consul general at Vienna a dispatch giving the details of the exhibition which it is proposed to hold at Vienna next year, under the patronage of the Archduke Charles Louis, for the purpose of illustrating as completely as possible the history and progress of music and the drama.

The objects which are aimed at are to provide an exhibition illustrating the history and progress of music and the drama.

The Late Mrs. Hopkins.

Lawrence, Mass., July 28.—The late Mrs. Mark Hopkins Searles' funeral will be held on Wednesday afternoon at St. Thomas Episcopal church, of which Mrs. Searles was a member. The interment will take place in the family vault recently erected in the small grave yard opposite the Searles residence in Methuen. The mother of Mrs. Searles is very ill at the residence in Methuen.

STRONG COMBINATION.

How Russia is Entertaining the Frenchmen.

The Czar's People are Skilled in Deceit.

Everything that Might Excite Unfavorable Comment Has Been Placed Out of Sight of the Visitors.

St. Petersburg, July 28.—A great deal of history is evidently being made up between the port of Cronstadt, where, side by side ride the friendly squadrons of France and Russia, and the grand structure in this city wherein are located the offices of M. De Giers, Russian minister of foreign affairs.

No more cordial reception has ever been accorded by the Russian govrnment and people, to the representatives of a foreign power than the one which has during the past week been tendered to Admiral Gervais and his officers and sailors.

This fact cannot be minimized by the depreciatory tone assumed by the press of England and that of the nations composing the triple alliance.

A reference to but one or two of the many significant manifestations which have marked the occasion as an altogether exceptional one will go sufficiently far to prove the truth of this assertion.

It is probable that cable dispatches have already informed the American people of some of the extraordinary ovations which have constantly greeted the visiting Frenchmen from the moment their war ships came to anchor in Cronstadt roadstead until the present hour.

It may, however, even at the risk of repetition, be well to refer to the singing of the Marseillaise by the famous Slavienski choir, accompanied by the massed bands of the Russian army and navy stationed at the "iron port."

How rare a compliment this was will be understood when one reflects that there are grandfathers in St. Petersburg, lovers of inspiring music, too, who never before heard the grand revolutionary hymn rendered by men who wore the uniform of the czar.

There is another case in point, and one which well illustrates the subtlety of Russian instinct in indicating how, under certain conditions, very clever things may be done.

As is well known, there are in the magnificent gallery of the winter palace few military pictures which attract more attention from visitors than does Sanerwald's painting entitled "The Taking of Paris by the Allied Armies in 1814."

Yet, for the present, this picture is not visible. It has been completely hidden from view by a most artistic intermingling of the standards of France and Germany.

On the other hand, the smaller pictures which have supported Kotzebnee's "Taking of Berlin, September 28, 1760," have been temporarily removed, thus causing the portraiture of Prussian humiliation to stand out in bold relief.

No other pictures have been disturbed. As the palace has been thrown wide open to the public for the time being and as a particularly cordial invitation has been extended to the visitors to gaze upon its treasures, thousands of Russians, and hundreds of French sailors (who are given liberal leaves of absence from their ships), have been both gratified and amused by the odd conceit.

It is not so much, however, of strains of music or bygone victories or defeats that Russians and French are thinking of this morning. Excitement has grown rapidly since yesterday, when, in a carefully prepared and remarkably virile editorial article, the semi-official Novoye Vremya haughtily declared in effect, that not with the dreibund or Lord Salisbury, but with France and Russia rests the fate of Europe.

No Russian newspaper dare utter such a menace did it not do so with the approval of the imperial government. The editorial in question has done much to create the impression that the preliminaries of a final understanding have already been agreed upon between M. De Giers, the Russian prime minister, and M. De Laboulaye, the French ambassador, assisted by Admiral Gervais.

Consequently attention is concentrated upon the Peterhof palace, where to-day the czar gives a grand state dinner to the French admiral and his suite, and there are not wanting those who predict that very soon after partaking of salt at the banquet fateful words will be spoken in no undecided manner. A few hours more will tell the tale.

Early yesterday afternoon the troops of the imperial guard and of the military division of St. Petersburg, under the immediate command of the Grand Duke Vladimir-Alexandrovitch, the brother of the czar, moved to the positions assigned them along the route from St. Petersburg to Peterhof, and thence over the road leading to Oranienbaum and Cronstadt.

The posts of especial honor—those in, about and around the palace and little town of Perterhof—were guarded by the flower of the Russian army, the regiment of preobrajensky, and the grenadiers, chasseurs, and Cossacks of the guard.

Early this morning the streets of this city became alive with the sounds and movements of preparation for the great state dinner, and before the sun was well up the St. Peterburgers in all sorts of conveyances were, by land and water, hurrying westward to secure some coign of vantage from which, if possible, to catch a glimpse of the nation's guests.

The sharply contrasting yellow and black of Russia and the blue, white and red of France were united in rosettes and other devices which ornamented the bosoms of thousands of the holiday makers.

WILL STICK TO PRINCIPLES.

Democrats in Kansas do not Desire a Fusion.

Kansas City, July 28.—The Star publishes an interesting collection of interviews with leading and prominent democrats throughout Kansas relative to the expedience of a fusion of the democracy of the state with the people's party.

The persons interviewed represent every faction in the democratic party of the state and the result shows a remarkable unanimity of sentiment against such a step and in favor of an independent democratic campaign.

The feeling that the cost of such a coalition would greatly outweigh the advantages is very general. It is contended that the benefits would be of a temporary character and would not justify the sacrifice of principles which would be necessary.

There is very little sympathy expressed for the financial schemes proposed by the farmers' alliance which is, in fact, the dominating factor of the peoples' party in Kansas.

CHASING THE WRONG MAN.

The Supposed Almy Was a Frenchman Hurrying to His Sick Wife.

Montreal, July 28.—The man who was traced by detectives to Montreal under the belief that he was Almy, the murderer, and who pawned his watch at Richmond, Que., for a ticket to this city, was found Saturday, and proved to be a French Canadian named Jacques Robilia, of Drummondville, Que., who had been working in Chelsea, Mass. Being notified of the serious illness of his wife he started to go home, forgetting in his excitement to supply himself with funds and had to pawn his watch as stated. Detective McMahon returned him his watch and released him from all suspicion of crime.

QUAY WILL STICK.

He Pronounces the Senatorial Story a Fake.

Pittsburg, July 28.—Senator Quay at his home in Beaver was shown the dispatch from Philadelphia, which stated that intimate political friends of the senator throughout the state said he was determined to resign his seat in the United States senate on the meeting of congress in December next.

When asked if the statement was true Senator Quay replied: "It's a fake, pure and simple. I have not so much as thought of it, and really I don't see why the story was started, for there is no foundation for it whatever."

A Tornado.

Wichita Falls, Tex., July 28.—A small-sized tornado has passed along the southeast side of town. A house occupied by J. T. Lee was torn to pieces. Lee, his wife and brother-in-law, J. W. Rodgers, and two children were seriously injured. Several other houses were moved from their foundations, but no one else was hurt.

Treasury Surplus.

Washington, July 28.—The treasury surplus to-day aggregates $54,276,801, of which amount $25,745,554 is deposited in national banks, and $19,423,558 is subsidiary silver.

Application for authority to organize the Citizens' National bank of Knoxville, Iowa, was to-day received by the comptroller of the currency.

Tin Plate Men Strike.

Swansea, July 28.—A deputation of Upper Forest tin platers waited upon the proprietors of the tin plate works to-day to protest against the rates offered. The proprietors replied that the works must be closed until better prices can be obtained. The hammermen have struck in sympathy with the union and are arranging to strike for higher pay.

In British Waters.

Ottawa, Ont., July 28.—Minister of Marine Tupper contends that according to the line laid down by the last geodetic survey, that part of the Bay of Fundy in which the United States fishing boats were seized recently, is clearly in British waters. The report of the officer who made the seizure reached the fisheries department yesterday afternoon.

Killed by the Cars.

Dayton, July 18.—An unknown man 60 years old, was killed at a railroad crossing here yesterday.

CHARGED WITH MURDER.

Evidence of a Terrible Crime Discovered.

A Father Had Threatened to Kill His Son and His Dead Body is Found by Hunters.

Charleston, S. C., July 28.—While a party of men were hunting rabbits in the suburbs of Aiken, S. C. on Sunday, the dogs left the original trail and began scratching some newly upturned earth.

A human skull was unearthed and further examination showed that a body had been buried in the pit. The body was that of Matthew Johnson, a 15-year-old boy who has been missing since May.

On several occasions he had run away from home and his father had threatened to kill him if he ran away again. The father has been arrested.

WILL GIVE BACK THE FLAG.

An Ohio Emblem Captured by Confederates to Be Returned.

Washington, July 28.—The daughter of the late confederate general, Harry T. Hays, has turned over to Colonel A. S. Graham, an officer of the Grand Army of the Republic, the battle-flag of the Fifty-seventh Ohio regiment, which her mother desired should be returned to that regiment.

Colonel Graham will take the flag with him to the National Encampment at Detroit next month and return it to such survivors of the regiment as may be found, or to some typical Ohioan.

The flag was captured at the battle of Gettysburg, and was turned over to Gen. Hays, and has reposed in the keeping of his family till now.

FEATHER-WEIGHT PUGS.

Dixon and Willis to Meet it California To-Night.

Betting $100 to $60 on the Boston Colored Boy.

A Contest for $5,000 Which Promises to Take Place and be Fought Out on Its Merits.

San Francisco, July 28.—George Dixon of Boston, who has defeated the cleverest feather-weights in this country, and Abel Willis, an Australian boxer of note, will spar for a purse of $5,000 at the California Athletic club to-night. This is the largest amount ever offered for a battle between men in this class.

If the foreigner is anything like what his friends say he is the club will not have cause to regret giving this purse. Dixon is a pugilistic wonder. He is still a youngster, but he hasn't allowed the grass to grow under his feet since he first jumped into prominence in the pugilistic world.

When Tom O'Rourke took hold of him Dixon was sparring in Boston with everybody who came along. He had four fights with Hank Brennan, of Boston, and each meeting resulted in a draw. Brennan was an unusually clever boxer, and O'Rourke after seeing one of these battles arrived at the conclusion that there was the making of a world beater in Dixon. They formed a sort of partnership and George won several fights near the Hub before he came on to New York to meet Eugene Hornbacker.

Hornbacker was regarded at that time as the next best man to Cal McCarthy, who then held the championship at 114 pounds. McCarthy had his hands full in whipping Hornbacker.

A majority of the New York sporting men who saw the young mulatto make his bow in this city believed that he would be easily beaten by the New Yorker. They were disappointed. Dixon had his own way from the very start and after less than two rounds of rapid fighting Hornbacker was completely done for.

After some talk on both sides Dixon and McCarthy were matched. The result was the memorable seventy round draw.

Another meeting was talked of, but there was a hitch somewhere. Finally Dixon went to England and met "Nunc" Wallace, the champion of that country in his class. Wallace was "mutton pie" for the Boston lad, who returned to this country with plenty of confidence and money.

Negotiations were then entered into for a match between Dixon and Johnny Murphy. The latter had been beaten by McCarthy in four rounds, but he had the better of the contest until he broke his arm.

Murphy was heavily backed. He fought Dixon at the Gladstone club, in Providence. The white lad was game and he fought against long odds for 40 rounds. Dixon finally gave him his quietus.

A second match with McCarthy was then arranged. The Puritan Athletic club hung up a purse of $4,000 for the contest.

When the night scheduled for it arrived there was such a mighty howl from the anti-Gleasonites in Long Island City that the directors of the club declared the match off.

The Crib club of Troy, offered to put up $4,000 for the lads. They accepted and McCarthy was beaten in 23 rounds.

Then Willis came to this country with "Shadow" Maher. Several good offers were made for a match between Dixon and the newcomer. Dixon held out for a $5,000 purse and the California club directors decided to come to his terms. The men have both been in training for five weeks and will enter the ring Tuesday night fit to battle for a kingdom.

Little is known in this country about Willis. He has a record, to be sure, but Americans have no means of knowing what class of men he has beaten. The Sydney pugilistic oracle, "Similer," appraises the lad up to the skies and predicts that he can whip anything of his weight that stands in shoe leather. But then "Similer" has never seen Dixon perform. That makes a big difference.

Willis is a magnificent infighter, according to the statements of his friends. He expects to mow Dixon down at close quarters. It will be remembered that McCarthy adopted this style of attack when he first met the colored youth. The result was that Mac almost exhausted himself in prodding Dixon's diaphragm. It had no apparent effect.

Willis was "tried out" on a youngster named Mahoney in San Francisco soon after his arrival. The Australian's showing was a disappointment. He had a shade the better of the bout, but failed to show any great generalship.

President Fulda, of the California club, came to the rescue and declared that he had given Willis explicit instructions not to effectually stop Mahoney. This may be taken for what it is worth.

Mahoney was whipped and whipped badly by Danny O'Brien, the amateur bantam-weight, who was 10 pounds lighter than his adversary. Fancy what chance O'Brien, clever as he is, would have against Cal McCarthy. This establishes a pretty good line on the coming fight.

Dixon is 21 years old. Willis is two years his senior. The colored lad will have an advantage of about two inches in height and fully as much in the matter of reach. The betting on the coast at present is 100 to 60—Dixon. There has been little or no speculation on the result in the east because there is no Willis money around. Here are the records of the men:

George Dixon—Defeated young Johnson, 3 rounds; beat Jack Hamilton, 8 rounds; defeated Sam Cohen, 3 rounds; defeated Jim Mack, 5 rounds; beat Charley Parton, 6 rounds; defeated Barney Finnegan, 7 rounds; defeated Fred Morris, 4 rounds; defeated Paddy Kelly, 15 rounds; drew with Tom Dougherty, 10 rounds; defeated Jim Brackett, 5 rounds; drew with Hank Brennan four times, respectively in 10, 9, 15 and 27 rounds; defeated Billy James, 3 rounds; defeated Eugene Hornbacker, 2 rounds; drew with Cal McCarthy, 70 rounds; beat Nunc Wallace, English champion, 16 rounds; defeated Johnny Murphy, 40 rounds; defeated Cal McCarthy, 23 rounds.

Abel Willis—Defeated Harry Regan, 35 rounds; defeated Jack Carroll, 6 rounds; beat Carl, of Sydney, 3 rounds; drew with young Mitchie, 18 rounds; beat Pluto, 6 rounds; defeated Tom Smith twice, 23 rounds and 6 rounds; drew with Griffo, 23 rounds; defeated Jim Holden, 15 rounds; beat Jack O'Shea, 18 rounds; defeated Charles A. Mitchell, 30 rounds; beat Jim Donaldson, 16 rounds; beat Frank Rawlinson, 14 rounds; defeated Jack Tully, 6 rounds; beat Billy Williams, 4 rounds; defeated Jack Clarkson, 6 rounds; beat Fred Watson, 16 rounds; beat young Kennedy, 72 rounds; beat Tommy Wrightson, 16 rounds; defeated Jack Tooley, 18 rounds; beaten by Billy Murphy, 6 rounds; defeated "Nipper" Peakes, 8 rounds.

THE MILL WENT UP.

Three Hundred Kegs of Powder Do Some Damage.

Platteville, Wis., July 28.—The cylinder mill of the Laflin-Rand Powder company, in which 300 kegs of powder were in process of making, was blown up, completely demolishing the building and causing the loss of one life. John Long, who had charge of the mill, was at his post at the time and though diligent search has been made, a small portion of his skull is all that has been found of his remains. It is supposed that his whole body was blown to atoms. The cause of the explosion is unknown.

A LEADER OF DEMOCRACY

Governor Campbell in the Daily Walks of Life.

A Hard Worker and a Thorough Gentleman.

Well Prepared to Meet the Enemy in the Coming Campaign and Down the Boodlers to a Finish.

Columbus, July 28.—(Special.)—For the next four months the eyes of the nation will be turned toward Ohio and her gallant governor, James E. Campbell. The Buckeye state has been chosen, not for the first time, as the ground for the preliminary skirmish of a national campaign. Governor Campbell, as the champion of Democracy, has taken up the tariff gauntlet tossed into the arena by that knight errant, William McKinley, Jr., and an exciting and interesting contest is assured.

The state will be flooded with money by the manufacturers of the country who draw immense profits from an "iniquitous system of taxation," for with the defeat of champion McKinley high protective tariff will meet an ignominious death.

Despite all this Ohio's gallant governor, after having put to rout the malcontents of his own party, enters the fight with confidence and determination to win.

He feels that the eyes of the nation are upon him; that a great political trust is imposed, which if he cannot ultimately carry out his efforts must at least redound to his credit.

"I cannot but feel confident," said the governor to a warm personal friend, after his renomination. "I believe the conditions are ripe, as they never have been, for the success of the Democratic party. After the results of a year ago I feel satisfied to enter the fight on the tariff issue. The campaign will be a vigorous one and will require good generalship."

Governor Campbell has the reputation of being a vigorous campaigner, and it is evident he is thoroughly alive to the situation. He is just now in the full strength of manhood. Forty-eight years have tinged his hair with gray, but he possesses a wonderful amount of energy, which has carried him over many a rough place.

He comes from good stock—good fighting stock, as his enemies in Ohio can bear witness. One of his ancestors was Captain John Parker, who commanded the Colonial troops at the battle of Lexington, and another was with Montgomery at the assault on Quebec.

Both his grandfathers were soldiers in the War of 1812. His father, Andrew Campbell, was a physician of prominence in Middleton, Butler county, Ohio, where on July 7, 1843, the future governor was ushered into the world. His uncle too, Lewis D. Campbell, was a statesman of note.

Ten years ago the "Butler County Mascot," as he is familiarly known, was common "Jim" Campbell. He had "cut no great swath" in politics outside of his own country. But he had the stuff in him. He had received a fair education and had taught school at 18. Before he had reached his majority he joined the navy and served on the Mississippi and its tributaries, taking part in naval engagements at Fort De Russey, Tunica Bend and other places.

He was discharged for disability much against his own wish, and sent home. After he recovered he began the study of law, and at twenty-four he hung out his shingle in the quiet little town of Hamilton.

Young Campbell was successful in his law practice and soon became popular and widely known by his agreeable social qualities. He first venture of note in politics was in 1877, when he was elected prosecuting attorney, serving until 1880. He was a candidate for the state senate in 1879, and only lacked 12 votes of being elected.

Mr. Campbell had demonstrated his popularity and his ability as a campaigner, however, and his friends successfully urged his nomination as candidate for member of congress. Notwithstanding there was a large republican majority in his district he came out of the contest a good winner.

He was re-elected in 1884 and again in 1886, his last victory being on the meagre plurality of two votes. Butler county democrats had begun to look upon him now as a mascot and great things were predicted for him in the future.

Mr. Campbell's career in Congress was marked by close application to the interests of his constituents, and he made a wide reputation by championing the cause of the ex-soldiers and his interest in measures for the welfare of the wage earners.

A Brilliant Campaign.

Mr. Campbell's reputation as a mascot now brought him forward as a candidate for governor, he being the unanimous choice of the democratic state convention in 1889. His campaign was one brilliant series of aggressive movements that worried and finally dumfounded his political opponents. He came out of the fight with flying colors, having received the largest vote ever cast in the state for any candidate for governor, and 46,218 votes more than the democratic candidate of the preceding gubernatorial election.

Gov. Campbell's record as chief executive of the state is too well known to require repetition. He has been noted for an inflexible adherence to that which he believed to be right, which was most forcibly illustrated by his bold stroke at the political corruption in Hamilton county. Even his most sanguine friends doubted his ability to beat down the storm of wrath and indignation, but his generalship carried him through, and his renomination was a complete and signal victory.

Gov. Campbell is a hard worker. He always reaches his office at the capitol in the morning before his clerks, and by the time they arrive, shaking off their prolonged slumbers, he is busy opening his mail and making things lively all around. He is usually the last to leave the office, too, at meal hours and at night.

In the capitol adjoining his private office is a little den about 8x12, where he retires when a press of business makes it necessary that he should not be interrupted. He spends a great deal of time in this den, particularly after the clerks have gone home and he is free from intrusion.

The governor is easily accessible, however, and has a pleasant way of greeting the many callers who occupy his time, either on business or out of curiosity. He has been free with the services at church fairs, private charities and public meetings and readily adapts himself to the occasion.

The governor's charming wife is a leading light in society, her reputation as a hostess at Washington having preceded her. The governor's family is ensconced in one of the fine, historic, old stone mansions on East Broad street. It was one of the first houses built on that now beautiful avenue, which is for more than a mile shaded by the foliage of majestic trees. The gubernatorial mansion belongs to what is known as the Kelly estate. It is full of rare and costly furniture, pictures, sculptures and heirlooms collected by this aristocratic and time honored family.

Mrs. Campbell's favorite nook in this interesting old mansion is in the middle hall, where stand two valued heirlooms—an old "grandfather" clock and a spinning wheel. In the main hall, among other things, is a much prized suit of armor from one of the old French battle fields. In every nook of the old house are objects of rare interest, and an attempt to describe them would be indeed tedious.

One of the coolest nooks in the house is the governor's library, which is crowded with miscellaneous literature. His law library, one of the largest private collections in the state, remains in his law office at Hamilton. His leisure moments are mostly devoted to magazines and periodicals. The governor drives one of the finest turnouts it the city, a finely matched team of chestnut sorreis and a victoria and brougham. I should not forget to mention that the governor has four interesting children, a daughter—one of the buds of society—and a son, both reaching maturity, and two younger. The governor is domestic in his habits and an attendant upon the Presbyterian church, besides being a member of the G. A. R., Elks, Masons and Knights of Pythias.

The Lead Trust.

New York, July 28.—The trustees of the national lead trust have decided to reorganize the concern in the shape of a corporation. The stockholders will vote on the proposition August 7.

TANGLE AT WAUSEON.

A Legal Complication on the Division of Townships.

Wauseon, July 28.—(Special)—Several weeks since the commissioners granted a petition asking that two miles be taken off the east end of Franklin township and annexed to Dover.

Under the law there is no appeal and to-day Judge Handy granted a temporary injunction, restraining the auditor from placing the townships as divided on the duplicate and from dividing the funds of the townships.

It is a novel question without precedent and the outcome will be awaited with interest. Judge J. M. Ritchie, of Toledo, and Ham Bros. are the attorneys for the contestants.

Massachusetts Democrats.

Boston, July 28.—The Democratic state committee held a meeting today at which Wm. J. Dale, jr., was elected to membership in the committee and subsequently to the secretaryship to Col. J. C. Coveney.

The state convention will be held on Tuesday, September 29, at Worcester, when Gen. F. A. Collins of Boston will preside. G. n. Corcoran, the chairman of the state committee, will appoint a preliminary committee of seven to prepare resolutions for the committee on resolutions.

Heir to a Fortune.

Taunton, Mas., July 28.—Mrs. Martha Mortimer, of Baltimore, who has been advertised in the southern papers as niece and heiress of Gen. Francis B. Spinola, has arrived here from Maine and just learned of her good fortune. After her husband died she came east, and after working in various capacities took care of an invalid lady in Hallowell, Me.

Bonds Sold.

Dayton, July 28.—Dayton has sold bonds as follows: $50,000 worth of water works to Lamprecht Bros. & Co. of Cleveland, for $51,430; $50,00 street paving bonds to Seasongood & Meyer of Cincinnati for $53,100; $28,000 sewer bonds to Maverick National bank of Boston, Mass., for $40,113. The bonds draw 4 per cent.

First National of K. C.

Washington, July 28.—The comptroller of the currency to-day received a report from Bank Examiner Marshall which shows that the First National bank of Kansas City, Ks., is insolvent. A receiver will be appointed immediately.

Ordered Out.

Duquoin, Ill., July 28.—Four hundred laborers marched to Robert Cummins' house, a non-union man, and ordered him to leave town. Cummins says he will not go.

AS BOLD AS JESSE JAMES.

A Well Conceived Plan to Rob a Bank.

The Officials Were Posted and it Failed.

A Coolly Concocted Scheme Which Had Murder as a Part of Its Successful Execution.

Des Moines, Ia., July 28.—There has been brought to a focus a regular Jesse James plot to rob the American Savings bank, of East Fifth and Walnut streets.

The two most prominent persons in the plot were Samuel Cooper, of 1648 East Capital avenue, and James Dimmit, one of the notorious Dimmit family, who has frequently appeared in police courts as defendant in criminal cases.

The plot not only included the robbery of the bank, but the killing of its teller, Alex. B. Elliott.

The whole business was nipped in the bud by the arrest of Cooper and Dimmit. Cooperdis a man of medium height. He has a red mustache and sandy hair, blue eyes and a face much freckled. He was arrested at his home by Chief Stutsman, assisted by officers.

The plot had been long in hatching and an attempt to carry it out was made on Friday, July 17. It was decided to raid the bank at 8:20 a. m., when the time lock swung open the ponderous doors of the vaults and exposed about $50,000. A negro and three white men were in the scheme, and they went to the bank fully prepared to do murder and robbery.

But since June 9 the scheme has been known by R. L. Chase, cashier of the bank, and to Deputy Marshal Johnson and Detective Ed Jounson, and for many nights two or all of these men have slept in the bank. On that Friday morning all were present.

The plan of the thieves was this: Cooper was to engage the teller in conversation. The negro ally was to sneak into a side entrance and sandbag him. In case the teller turned his head Cooper was to hold him up with a revolver and the negro was to slip a big knife into his side. Then they were to throw the rolls of bank bills into a covered basket and make their escape.

They met in front of the bank that morning. Cooper entered and began to negotiate a loan. Just then a banker in another building, who knew what was in the wind, stepped to his window to look down the street, and this caused a watcher outside to give an alarm and Cooper went out.

The next move was on the 20th, when Cooper found too many people going along the walk, and concluded not to go in.

The next time, though the others went through their part of the play, the negro either grew soft-hearted or smelled a mouse, for he neglected to do his part.

Then a plan was arranged by which Cooper engaged a reporter under the assumption that he was a Missouri "tough." The reporter fell into the scheme and held several conversations with Cooper and met him last night at his home, where it was agreed that they all should meet at the fair grounds Sunday, at 4 o'clock, and complete arrangements for making the raid on Monday morning. The reporter was to go into the bank and engage the teller in the conversation, and the negro, James Dimmitt, was to stab him. Cooper was to make off with the money.

Cooper and Dimmitt were then arrested. Cooper showed resistence, but a revolver in the hands of the chief soon quieted him. This morning the two culprits were brought into the police court.

The charge preferred was conspiracy to break and enter and rob the American savings bank. The preliminary hearing was set for Tuesday, August 11.

Dimmett was asked what part he took in the affair and replied that he had done nothing yet; that he had gone to the bank once, but only to see what was to be done and next time he was told that he must get in his work. When asked if he carried a weapon, he replied no, that he had never in his life carried a gun or pistol—a statement that the police records will not bear out.

Cooper appeared wild and acted as if he wanted to convince the court that he is insane. He declared he did not know what he was arrested for, and did not know Dimmitt nor know where the bank was. Dr. Chase, who has kept watch at the bank for several weeks, says that there is no doubt that Cooper instigated the plot and is far from crazy. Mrs. Cooper declares her husband has been insane for months and is not responsible for his actions or statements. She says he told her last night that he did not know what would become of him.

"I may lose my life in this thing," said he. "The men have gone away and I don't know what they may do." She says two men came there last night and talked to Mr. Cooper, and one said: "If you breathe a word of this, Cooper, we will kill you."

Cooper is a man about 45 years of age, short and heavy set, with light eyes, a gray mustache and gray hair, and is slightly lame. He has lived in Des Moines about 14 years and was never suspected of being as desperate a character as he has proved himself to be. He dabbled in real estate and traded horses for a living. He is said to be "an old timer" at "crooked work."

HIS WIFE WAS A NUN.

Bewitched by a Pretty Black-Eyed Mexican Girl,

He Stole Her Away from a Convent to be His Wife.

A Romance from the Southern Border, Which so Far as Heard from, Has Resulted Happily.

Pittsburg, July 28.—She was a Mexican, he a native of Tennessee. The bewitching beauty of the girl and the modesty of the young man attracted the attention of people to the couple at the Union depot. It was the old story. They had recently been married and were going to New York to spend their honeymoon.

"When I was a nun, Frank," the girl said, as she showed her pretty white teeth, "I didn't enjoy such perfect freedom as I do now."

The remark was overheard and to the excited brain of a reporter it at once conjured up a story of the romantic type. A married nun is, indeed, a rarity, but it is not surprising at all that a man should fall in love with a beautiful woman. She was pretty and petite. Her skin was swarthy, the eyes and hair dark, the features clear cut and regular.

She was a perfect specimen of Spanish womanhood with a roguish smile that the cloister could not chain.

She never should have been dedicated to a religious life, in the first place, and here is where the mistake was made.

It was no fault of hers that she followed a natural instinct, and jumped the high walls with her Romeo.

The story of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Joseph is quite romantic and out of the ordinary. A young doctor in Pittsburg, who was at the station to meet them, and a great friend of the groom, furnished the facts.

"Joseph and I," he said, "met at college and during the summer vacation we went with a party into Mexico to collect the fauna of the country and geological specimens. This was about five years ago. On the road between Monterey and the little town of Saltillo is located an ancient convent, and it was there Joseph met his wife. It seems in Mexico girls are not given their choice about accepting the veil, but the parents select one from the family to follow a religious life.

There is no other alternative and she is expected to obey.

"The result is that in many Mexican convents you find plenty of young women who are not actuated by a deep sense of duty. They are there because they cannot help themselves, or because they do not wish to dissappoint their parents. With this explanation it can easily be understood how the nun in question threw aside vows and conscientious scruples and followed the teachings of her heart, and I will say head also.

"Well, one hot afternoon as we were tramping along the dusty road beyond Monterey, complaining about the heat and wishing we had something to wet our parched throats, the convent loomed up in the distance. We didn't know what it was at first, and supposed it was a wayside inn.

"With a warwhoop we made a run for the old stone building, but found the gate locked. We made considerable racket, when one of the nuns came out. We told her we were thirsty and hungry, and we asked if we could rest awhile. She invited us in and we sat on the grass inside of the stone wall. The lady was kind hearted, and she directed the girls to bring us food and drink, which they did freely.

"I noticed most of the nuns were young and pretty. They appeared to be glad to see a lot of young fellows, and enjoyed it as much as we did. They smiled roguishly as well as sweetly, and after the awe of the place had worn off the boys took great pleasure in flirting with them. The Mother Superior scowled, but it was no good. The girls didn't see men very often, and they were determined to enjoy the sight while it lasted. I suppose we remained there an hour or more when we returned to Monterey well pleased with the afternoon's visit.

"As long as we stayed in Monterey after that I would frequently miss Joseph. He would suddenly disappear for a time, and then turn up. None of us dreamed he was courting one of the sisters, but this was what he was doing. He was in the habit of meeting the girl outside of the wall, and the romantic courtship soon ripened into love.

"The day we were going to leave he confided the secret to me and wanted me to help him steal the nun and get her to the border. It was a risky piece of business at that time, as there had been some trouble along the frontier, and the country was full of Mexican soldiers. I saw looming up before me a Mexican prison, and I had no desire to spend any time in a dungeon.

"I knew very well if we attempted it we would be arrested before we got out of the country. Joseph was very disconsolate over the prospect, but he said he was determined to take the girl with him to the United States and marry her. I thought it a playful fancy, and did all I could to dissuade him.

"I argued that she was a Mexican and he a Yankee. The chances are the love for each other would soon die out, and their lives would then be miserable.

"It was wrong to steal the nun from the convent and take her into a strange land. Above all, the danger of being caught was too great, and if such a hitch occurred they might never be married. This line of argument had its effect, and in a very unhappy frame of mind he returned to the north and went back to his college studies.

"I had forgotten all about the affair, when, a short time ago, I received a telegram from Joseph's father, in Tennessee, asking me if I had heard that Frank had married a Mexican nun. The old man was worried about it, and he feared the consequences. It turns out that the young man finished his education and then went back to Monterey. He still loved Ynez, the pretty girl in the convent. Frank hired a horse and the girl made a break for liberty. They started to ride across to the border, but fortunately the trip was without incident. Once on American soil they were married by a backwoods preacher, the bride still wearing the convent garments. She then changed her clothes for a natty street costume, and with great glee they went back to Tennessee. His father was greatly pleased with the daughter-in-law and everybody was happy. He told me last evening that he had notified the girl's parents of what he had done. No reply had been received from them, and he supposed they are very angry. He thinks, however, that time will heal the breach and all will be forgiven. It is not often that men have such romantic experiences in getting married."

Tourtelotte's Remains.

Washington, July 28.—The remains of the late John Tourtelotte, U. S. A., formerly aide-de-camp to Gen. Sherman, who died at La Crosse, Wis., on the 22nd inst., reached the city yesterday.

They were at once taken to and interred at Arlington under charge of a committee from the District of Columbia commandery of the Loyal Legion, of which the deceased was a member, composed of Maj. W. F. Huxford, recorder, and Gen. B. C. Clark of the army, and Gen. R. D. Mussey, Maj. F. A. Butts, and Capt. Thomas Wilson of the volunteers. The body bearers, firing party and bugler were detailed from the garrison of Fort Myer and under the personal command of Col. Guy V. Henry, U. S. A.

Sheeny Al Sentenced.

London, July 28.—At the general session of the criminal court held at Old Bailey, Edward Pinter, alias "Sheeny Al," the American "alchemist," who is charged with attempting to obtain $40,000 from Edwin Streeter, the Bond street jeweler, entered a plea of guilty and was sentenced to three months imprisonment. Pinter claimed he had discovered the "philosopher's stone" and could convert a sovereign into a piece of gold three times its weight.

CUTTING AWAY A TOWN.

The Missouri River Again Causing Alarm.

St. Joseph, Mo., July 28.—Unless a most miraculous influence is brought to bear upon the Missouri river to prevent the inroads made at a point west of this city known as the Belmont bend, the town of Elmwood, opposite St. Joseph, and a territory of about six square miles of farming country will be submerged and the bridge and the railroad tracks will be rendered useless.

The neck of land separating the river above and below the bend has been reduced to a width of 1,600 feet, and the banks are caving in acre by acre every day. The citizens of St. Joe are awakened to a sense of the necessity for thorough action.

Should the river cut through the Kansas bottoms this city would be deprived of three of its most important lines of railroads for months at least. The iron bridge now spanning the stream at this point would be rendered useless, all communication with the Kansas farmers would be cut off and it would be impossible to estimate the damage to merchants and business man. The sewer system would be rendered useless and directly in front of the city would be situated a filthy and death-breeding lake that could not be displaced with millions.

THEY SAY JOHN SWORE.

Which Means that Sherman Was Very Mad.

How the Republican Brethren are Dwelling in Unity in the Buckeye State.

Columbus, July 28.—The declaration of the republicans organs to the effect that all is harmony between the "big four" of Ohio is quite amusing to those who have inside information as to the real facts.

Sherman, Foster and Foraker in the senatorial race and McKinley endeavoring to play the field for a place on the national ticket is not a condition of affairs conducive to harmony.

The assertion of Mr. Sherman at the recent Cincinnati conference that he and the ex-governor were the best of friends is extremely fishy when other matters connected with their relations are taken into consideration.

The ex-governor is also on record as saying that the relations between himself and the senator are mutually cordial. If reports are true, and there is little doubt as to their authenticity, it is pretty certain that the senator has no love for the ex-governor and the latter's opinion of the former will undoubtedly balance the account so far as a mutual admiration society between the two gentlemen is concerned.

The letter of the ex-governor, read at the Mansfield conference, in which he turned down the ambitious Joseph Smith of Urbana, and which was first published in these dispatches, was not a document that raised Foraker in the estimation of Sherman, and indeed it might be said that, had the ex-governor heard the strictures Sherman passed on the document, he would have even less regard for the senator than he now has.

After the letter had been read and discussed and the conference virtually broken up, report has it, and it is believed to be very reliable, that Senator Sherman walked up and down the library floor and discussed the interference of Foraker in the campaign in more vigorous that polite language.

He did not hesitate to fracture very seriously the commandment which says "Thou shalt not take the name of the Lord thy God in vain." Some people say that the grave and dignified senator is not given to the use of profane language, but, unless there is a great stretch of the imagination on the part of a republican who was very near at the time, he did on this occasion give vent to his feelings in some strong and pointed words denunciatory of Foraker's presumption and meddlesomeness.

VICTORY FOR POOL ROOMS.

The Missouri Law Knocked Out in the Courts.

St. Louis, July 27.—In the court of criminal correction Judge Claiborne handed down a decision in the anti-pool selling law. Judge Claiborne declares the law unconstitutional and invalid because its objects are not clearly expressed in its title. As a consequence of the decision pool selling was resumed at most of the rooms, and bookmaking will commence today. It is expected that the state's attorney will carry the case to the supreme court.

Governor of Panama.

Washington, July 28.—His excellency, Gen. Aycardi, governor of Panama, has given permission to the Latin American department of the World's Columbian exposition to remove from the old fortress at Puerto Bello, on the Isthmus of Panama, some old Spanish cannon which date back very nearly to that of Columbus.

Gov. Aycardi has also agreed to loan for exhibition at Chicago, a marble slab bearing in base relief a most beautiful representation of the landing of Columbus. This piece of marble was presented to the city of Panama by the Empress Josephine nearly a hundred years ago.

The Electrocution Case.

New York, July 28.—Charles O'Connor Hennessy, who as city editor of the Daily News, was indicted last week for publishing an account of the electrocutions at Sing Sing, was called to the bar of general sessions yesterday. His counsel, Assemblyman Stein, filed a demurrer setting forth that the law under which Mr. Hennessy was indicted was unconstitutional. Some days will probably elapse before the recorder is heard from.

Bourke Cockran has been retained by the proprietor of the News to argue the case.

STRUCK A GASSER.

A New Well Drilled in Near Findlay.

Good for from Two Million to Three Million Feet in Twenty-Four Hours.

Findlay, July 28.—Gas and oil excitement was revived here last evening, when it was stated that another gasser had been drilled in. The well is near the McMurray well, six miles east and two miles north of town.

It is situated midway between two oilers, and the gas is dry and of excellent quality.

The well was drilled by John R. Ware, a well known producer, who is quite jubilant over the results.

The well was seen, and those familiar say it is good for from 2,000,000 to 3,000,000 feet.

Messrs. Ware & Bentel, owners of several other wells on the Poe farm where the gasser was developed, say that the well is holding out in good shape.

Mexican Railroads.

Washington, July 28.—The bureau of American republics has information that by the terms of Gen. Herman Sitzrus's railway concession from the Mexican government he is authorized to build a railway from Chapultepec to Cuernavaca, thence through the states of Guerrero, Puebla and Oaxaca to the port of Tecoanapa on the Pacific coast, with the right to continue along the coast to Palizada. He can also build branches, not to exceed two miles in length. Surveys must begin in six months, construction in 18 months and the line must be completed in 10 years.

More Fraudulent Stock.

Lewiston, Me., July 28.—The 10 per cent assessment upon the shareholders of the Shoe and Leather national bank of Auburn, has developed the fact that the Bethel Savings bank holds 20 shares of stock fraudulently issued by Defaulting Cashier Percival. These the bank will redeem at a cost of $2,000.

When the irregularities were first discovered Percival denied there had been any over-issue of stock.

UNTIL AUGUST FIRST.

There Are Four Days More In Which Patients May Avail Themselves of the Five-Dollar-a-Month Offer.

The summer is the best time for the treatment and cure of catarrhal troubles. The liability to catching fresh cold is then reduced to the minimum and the climatic conditions being then most favorable, catarrh yields the more rapidly to proper and scientific treatment. In order to give all an opportunity of availing themselves of their skill during this favorable season, Drs. Copeland and Buffett have made a uniform charge for medicine and treatment at $5 a month. This is to all patients and all diseases. All patients applying for treatment before Aug. 1 will be treated for $5 a month, each month's treatment, including medicine to cost $5 a month until cured.

It should take from two to four months of regular treatment to cure catarrh, commencing at a favorable season of the year. Patients troubled with catarrh taking treatment under the above conditions, who are not cured in that length of time, will be TREATED THEREAFTER FREE until they are cured.

A SERIOUS CASE.

A Victim of Catarrhal Troubles for 25 Years—An Interesting Statement from Sylvania.

Sylvania is situated about nine miles west of Toledo, on the L S & M S R R. It is a beautiful little village and brings back the recollections of our younger days spent on the farm.

Mr. John R. Taylor is a resident of Sylvania, and has attained the enviable age of 78 years. He has a beautiful home and is considered one of the prosperous men of that country. He is well known in Toledo, and the conversation which took place between Mr. Taylor and your correspondent will be of interest to a great many Toledoans.

MR. JOHN R. TAYLOR, SYLVANIA, OHIO.

He says:

"Well, sir, for over 25 years I have been a victim of catarrhal trouble. I first noticed it in '65, when it came with a slight dropping of mucous. I paid no attention to it at first, as any one naturally does, but it gradually grew so bad I consulted different doctors, all of them claiming to cure me, and they continued 'trying' to cure, it now being 25 years since I have been a

WRETCHED SUFFERER.

"My head and nose was constantly stopped up and I could scarcely breathe, except through my mouth. My throat was always sore and my mouth dry and parched. I had pains in the head and my eyes became very dim; ringing noises in the ears, and whenever I stoop'd and would suddenly raise up I would become so dizzy that I would have to hold something for support.

"Another very important yet distressing symptom was the pain in my chest. I could hardly keep at night being by the pain shooting from the chest to the shoulder blade. I had given up all hope of ever being any better, when I heard of the success of Drs. Copeland and Buffett, and decided to call upon them.

"And have they given you any benefit?"

"Yes, indeed. They have done for me in one month what other doctors have been 'trying' for the last 25 years.

"My symptoms have all disappeared, and although 78 years of age I feel young again, and I cannot say too much in praise of Drs. Copeland and Buffett."

Mr. Taylor lives at Sylvania, O., where he will, by letter or in person, verify the statement.

FAKIRS.

Bugbears With Which They Have Frightened Credulous Representatives.

Controling Votes Under Threat of Newspaper Displeasure—A Plausible Lie Exposed.

Apparently the crusade against the medical fakirs that have infested this community is going to be an easier affair than was anticipated. They are moving out at the sound of the first gun. Fearing the publicity which they realize will shine upon their methods, they are preparing to beat a hasty retreat. While we give them reasonable time to pack their traps and move, let us look to the means that will make their departure permanent and keep out all other criminals of their class. At the next session of the Ohio legislature proper laws of medical registration must and shall be passed. Ohio is to-day about the only state in the union that has not such laws.

"Why is it, that while other states have proper medical laws, Ohio has none? Whose fault is it?"

These questions asked in a recent letter are easy to answer. Every year a medical bill comes up before the legislature and every year it fails to pass. Why?

Because there are certain shrewd lawyers at Columbus in the employ of these medical fakirs, and because these lawyers represent to the legislators that if they favor such a bill, they will have every newspaper in the state up in arms against them at once and forever.

The newspapers they argue convincingly make their money by advertising, and the fakirs advertise. Hence the newspapers are bound to protect the fakirs. It is for their interest to do so.

No shrewder or more plausible lie was ever palmed off on a credulous representative. It is a lie, so shrewd and plausible that for years it has prevented the State of Ohio from securing protection for the people against quacks and fakirs.

And yet shrewd and plausible as the lie is, how easily it can be disproved. Let every voter who reads this article, say this to the legislator whom he supports with his vote:

"I do not blame you so much for being frightened by this threat. No man can afford to bring down on himself the universal condemnation of the newspapers, but I do blame you for your simplicity and credulity in believing such a lie. I do blame you for not knowing more about the newspapers of your state. No self-respecting newspaper will lend its aid to evil. No self-respecting newspaper will deny its support to what is for the public good. You ought to have known that even the financial success of a newspaper is based on this principle.

"Furthermore, even if your poor opinion of newspaper policy was just, even if newspaper editorials were dictated by a regard for the advertising columns as you have been led to believe, you are still the dupe of a lie. The best advertisers in the press to-day are regularly educated, regularly qualified physicians, who need no protection from the newspapers or the legislature, and who will firmly demand that Ohio shall have laws protecting the people from the imposition of quacks and medical adventurers. Go back to Columbus, now, and do your duty like a man, without fear or favor."

This false threat of the fakirs has served its purpose just as long as it shall. The newspapers of this state are not in league with quacks and charlatans. They unite with all right thinking men and women in condemning them. They encourage legitimate advertising, but let a palpable swindle be brought to their notice and see how quickly it is condemned. Let the honorable members of the legislature take notice. This bugbear is removed. We shall look for proper medical laws—such laws as govern other states—at the next session of that body.

From Representative Residents.

Mr. Wm. H. Dana, a marine engineer, residing at 816 Collingwood ave., says:

They have, beyond all doubt, placed me in better health than I could ever expect, and I heartily recommend them to the public.

Mr. Joseph Coombs, residing at 384 Indiana ave., says:

I cannot say too much in praise of Drs. Copeland and Buffett, for they have certainly saved me from a fate worse than death.

Their Credentials.

As has been said Dr. W. H. Copeland was president of his class at Bellevue Hospital Medical College, New York, where he graduated, the most famous institution of the kind in the country. His diploma bears the written indorsement of the medical authorities of New York, of the deans of prominent medical colleges of Pennsylvania. Dr. Buffett's credentials are no less abundant and unqualified. He also is formerly indorsed by Bellevue Hospital Medical College of New York and by the secretaries of various county and state medical societies. Both gentlemen after thorough experience and practice have devoted their time to the practice of their specialties, with what success the columns of the daily papers show.

Schooner Michigan Broken in two.

Chicago, July 28.—One of the most remarkable mishaps that ever befell a vessel anywhere happened to the schooner Michigan, unloading coal at Erie street, yesterday. While lying at her dock she broke in two with a report that sounded like that of a cannon.

At midships she is well out of water, while both her bow and stern lie deep in the river. The unloads against the captain's protest had taken out the coal from the midships section, leaving it in both bow and stern.

The Michigan is one of the largest schoonersschooners on the lakes, being 271 feet long and 41 feet wide. No person was on board at the time of the strange smashing up.

Steamer W. P. Burk Goes to Erie.

Bay City, July 28.—The W. R. Burk was fitted out yesterday for a trip to Erie, Pa., for which port she will leave to-morrow. She has found excursion business on Saginaw river not remunerative, and will seek greener pastures at Erie, running between that place and Massauga Point, a summer resort. The electric car line between Bay City and the beach has destroyed the water route.

Life Gun Lines.

Washington, July 28.—At the request of the Lake Carriers' association Secretary Foster to-day instructed Gen. Dumont, chief of steamboat inspection, to convene the inspectors of the various districts for the purpose of making experiments as to the efficacy of the life line guns, the use of which is imposed by an act passed a year ago.

The law is extremely obnoxious to the vessel men on the lakes, and at their request its operation was temporarily suspended for one year as far the lakes are concerned. They expect to be able to show when the experiments are made that the law is useless and ought to be entirely repealed. The date for the meeting of the inspectors has not yet been fixed.

Crowded Into Collision.

Port Huron, July 28.—Another case of a large raft taking up all the river happened at 1 o'clock this morning. The Volunteer, Norwalk, Lycoming and Hudson, bound up, and the tug Torrent, bound down, met at the middle ground. The Volunteer and Norwalk came together and considerable damage resulted to the Norwalk. At this point the channel is less than 600 feet wide. It is a wonder that some of the boats did not receive more damage.

Abandoned the Helena.

Cleveland, July 28.—The Orient Transportation company, owners of the schooner Helena, which was sunk Saturday in collision with the steamer Mariska, in Little Mud lake, have abandoned her to the underwriters.

She was insured with David Vance & Co., of Chicago, and her value is given in the Inland Lloyds as $24,000.

A dispatch from Buffalo last night stated that Captain W. D. Robinson, wreckingmaster for Worthington & Sill, had left for the Sault to examine her.

The steamer Mariska arrived yesterday at this port. She was but slightly injured by the collision, and repairs were made while she was unloading her ore. She cleared for Two Harbors, light, last night.

LOCAL LABOR NEWS.

The Building Trades Council Elect Officers and Pass Some Interesting Resolutions — Other Meetings Last Evening.

At the meeting of the Building Trades council last evening the following self-explanatory resolutions were adopted:

Whereas, The Kerlin Bros., contractors for our city pipe line, have through the labor exchanges of our state, sent out orders for street laborers to come and take the work of laying said line from them that are justly entitled to it; and

Whereas, This council, through the different locals represented, is given to understand that at the present time the city is overrun with idle men, willing, waiting and watching for something to do towards paying their taxes and supporting their families; and

Whereas, This council has heretofore protested against the importation of superintendents, inspectors, tramp plumbers and gas fitters, and as said protest was unheeded by them on account, as they claim, of a lack of skilled mechanics in our future great city; and

Whereas, It can be proven by the Warren and Scharf, Miller-Claflin Paving Co. and the Widmer Paving Co., that the street laborers of Toledo are as good, if not better, and more entitled to do the work on the streets of our city, than those of Cleveland and Cincinnati, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the time has come for all citizens and taxpayers to rise en masse, and enter a vigorous protest against the methods now employed by the trustees and contractors of our city pipe line from importing labor when so many of our own are in need of work, and, if necessary, an injunction should be served if said importation is carried out by the contractors of said line.

German Carpenters' No. 168—Philip Keip, Wm. Merce, J. H. L. Barnes, Nick Lundenseck, Joe Westenhuben, Chas. Memke.

Relative to the trouble among the painters the following resolutions were adopted:

Whereas, Local union No. 7, B. P. and D. of A., an organization which has procured for the painters of this city city many favorable conditions, and also given noble assistance to the cause of labor in general; and

Whereas, A few of the members for some unknown cause have seceded from the union and are endeavoring to organize another painters' union in this city, which we firmly believe to be unnecessary; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Building Trades' council do most severely condemn the action of the leaders in this movement in their endeavor to disorganize Union No. 7 and cause trouble amongst the painters of this city.

Be it further resolved, That we use every honorable means to defeat them in their endeavor, and that we will not patronize any firm who will employ them, nor business men who will patronize their employers.

The Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen held a meeting yesterday afternoon, and outside the regular routine business did nothing except an appointment of committee.

The arrangements for Labor day are progressing very favorably. Last evening the Metal Polishers' union and the Cigarmakers' union decided to turn out in the parade in a body. Other labor organizations are taking similar actions.

Boston, July 27.—At a meeting yesterday of the Boston Typographical union a resolution was adopted indorsing the movement in the book and job branch of the printing trade for a nine-hour day, with eight hours on Saturday.

In the matter of the Raud Avery company strike it was voted to declare it an unfair shop and to order members not to work there.

Philadelphia, July 28.—General Secretary P. J. McGuire, of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, has just completed his tenth annual report. After referring to the founding of the organization by a handful of delegates at Chicago who represented but twelve local unions with a membership of 2,042, Secretary McGuire calls attention to the fact that there are now 797 local unions with a membership of 81,394—58,000 of whom are active. Regarding the work of the brotherhood the report continues:

When the United Brotherhood of Carpenters sounded the appeal in 1881 to the journeymen carpenters of America to organize the ten-hour day was universal. Now we have 42 cities working eight hours a day, and 331 cities working nine hours a day, with hundreds of cities working shorter hours on Saturdays, thereby giving employment to 9,200 more men who otherwise would be idle.

After giving a full and compact statement of the financial affairs of the brotherhood the report closes with an earnest appeal for the celebration and observance of labor day and the necessity for continual public agitation.

Newark, N. J., July 28.—Eighty motormen and conductors of the Newark passenger Railway company struck for a reduction of hours and an increase of wages from $1.80 to $2 per day. It does not appear from the following dispatch that the street car men of this city were exorbitant in their demands from the recent call.

Judge Lemmon is still in the west enjoying a vacation. Mr. Acklin enjoyed the trip and meeting very much.

The Stone Road Muddle.

The county commissioners were in session this morning, and during which stone road 13 came up for discussion. It seems that Deputy Auditor Ely is dissatisfied with the results of Mr. Meissner's measurements and report, claiming that the necessary dimensions were not noted in the plans. The commissioners requested him to complete the plans by adding the necessary figures. Mr. Meissner took the plans and will report on them to-morrow morning.

Another Little Child Killed.

A fatal accident occurred on Field avenue last evening, when Annie, the 2-year-old child of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Calcamuggio was run over by a Consolidated electric car, the baby's head being severed from its body. It seems that the little one had been playing in the street, and as the car approached the motor man, Joseph La Croix, saw the child and slacked up. When this had been done Annie ran off and the car again started, but she almost immediately turned and was struck and rolled under the car, the fore wheel passing over her neck. The parents were sitting in front of their residence and saw their child killed, and of course their grief was extreme. The conductor, Henry Harloff, did not know of the fatality until after it occurred. Both of the men are old employes of the road. The motor man did all in his power to check his car, but it was too late. Coroner Roulet will hold an inquest to-morrow morning.

Some Assessment Insurance Societies Barred.

The state superintendent of insurance, Hon. W. H. Kinder, yesterday made an order by which several assesment insurance societies are barred from doing business in Ohio. He refused to relicense them because of failure to comply with the law passed at the last session of the legislature, which provides for deposits, security for losses, etc. The companies, however, may collect assessments on all contracts made prior to the issuing of the order, and are also required to pay all claims. The following companies now doing business are refused a new license: Preferred Mutual Accident association, New York; People's Mutual Accident association, Pittsburg; Knights Templar and Masons' Life Indemnity company, Chicago; Masons' Fraternal Accident Association of America, Westfield, Mass; Mutual Accident Association of the Northwest, of Chicago; New York Accident Insurance company, of New York. New companies applying for admission and refused a certificate of authority by the commissioner were as follows: National Benevolent association, Minneapolis; Bankers and Traders' Accident association, of New York, and the Connecticut Indemnity association, Waterbury, Conn.

A Pills Exponent.

Word was sent to the police headquarters in this city this morning to be on the lookout for a couple of elopers from Delta, Charles Liter and Nellie Cameron, ran away from home, boarding train No. 8 on the Air Line road at 3 a. m., and it is supposed they started for Detroit or Canada.

The girl is 15 years old, good looking and well dressed. Liter is 25 years old stoutly built and well dressed.

Word was received here too late for the officers to do anything, as the train had arrived from Delta and the one had left for Detroit, giving the runaway couple plenty of time to get out of Toledo.

Death of Mrs. George W. Vrooman.

After much suffering, Mrs. Emma B. Vrooman, wife of Mr. George W. Vrooman, died at her home on Jefferson street last night. Mrs. Vrooman has been ailing for some weeks with internal troubles, but it has only been since last Friday that her illness took a serious turn. The deceased was in the prime of life, and one of the best known ladies in the city, possessed of a happy and genial disposition, and her friends were numerous. Her home was the scene of many pleasant gatherings. Two children and a husband are left to mourn the loss of a loving mother and wife. Mrs. Vrooman was the daughter of Seman Smith, of Woodville, where the remains will be taken for interment. Mr. Vrooman and his family have the sincere sympathy of their many acquaintances in their bereavement.

The market quotations in the BEE are compiled from United Press special dispatches and from reports received by the Toledo Produce Exchange, and specially arranged by Mr. Dennis on B. Smith, secretary of the Exchange.

OFFICE OF THE TOLEDO BEE, }
TOLEDO, O., July 28. }

London wheat and corn markets strong. Liverpool wheat firm and 2 pence per 100 pounds higher. Corn firm, and 1¼ pence per 100 pounds higher.

The receipts of wheat at seven principal western points to-day are 1,341,660 bu, compared with 446,751 bu on the same day last year.

The quantity of flour and wheat on ocean passage decreased last week 1,000,000 bu. Corn decreased 352,000,000 bu.

Our table herein of available wheat and corn shows a decrease of 628,000 bu wheat, and a decrease of 681,000 bu corn.

Charters—Mr. T. J. Southard reports the following: Steamers Majestic, Walter Vail and schooners M. W. Paige, Baltic and Alaska, wheat to Buffalo, 1⅝c; schooner Vorges, rye to Buffalo, 1¾c; schooners Benson, St. Peter, steamer Susin Peck, wheat to Buffalo, 1¾c.

Maryland wheat.—The bulk of the receipts are tough and badly out of condition, so much so, that but very few of the samples are dry and suitable for millers; and but a comparatively small per cent will grade No 2 red. Some farmers say they are bound to thresh to prevent the grain's sprouting.

The wheat crop of Pennsylvania is estimated by the state department of agriculture at 22,500,000 bu, or about 4,000,000 bu in excess of the indications of the national report. The potato crop will be about 11,000,000.

The receipts of wheat to-day at seven principal western points are 894,003 bu in excess of the corresponding Tuesday in 1890.

English markets as reported herein are strong and equal to 2 40-100c per bu higher on wheat and 1 40-100c bu on corn.

The export clearances yesterday from four Atlantic ports were 182,806 bu of wheat and flour enough to make an aggregate of 350,000 t u, an 1 72,872 bu of corn.

Advance in English Markets.

We have said heretofore that any substantial advance in wheat on this side would be reflected in English markets. The advance in wheat in our markets yesterday was about an average of 2c bu, and the advance in Liverpool over Monday's prices as we quoted them from Beerbohm, equaled 2.40 per bu and the advance on corn equaled 1.40 per bu. If ever there was a time when America commanded the situation it is now. We all know the movement is large, but it is by no means likely to be continued on the present pace after August 1st. Farmers go to plowing and seeding and receipts will be shortened. Meantime all the wheat in transit is sold for export, and will be shipped as fast as it reaches the seaboard.

The Chicago Tribune of yesterday prints the most astonishing report of the loss of crops in Russia, and of the wretched condition of the people in consequence. It is too long for our columns, and if it is a reliable and true picture of the Russian condition, it not only confirms previous statements given herein, but is a touching and sad account of greatly increased loss and misery. If it is not true, it is the meanest and most diabolical specimen of deception and fraud for market effect, we have seen. We don't know whether the statement is all truth or not. Here are specimens:

"The official reports from Kuerson describe the winter crops as having perished completely, while the spring crops are fast following their example.

"The telegrams from Kien are not a whit more hopeful." "Advices from Taganrog say the drouth which has continued without interruption for over a month leaves little hope to farmers." "The fertile government of Tanrida is quite as badly off as those of Kien and Kharson." "From Bessarabia the government apprehends great misery." "Podolia is in the highest degree unsatisfactory." From Nolaga Basin, Tancow, the central government generally with the exception of the district of Tsaritsin where crops are fairly satisfactory, all hopes of a harvest are abandoned." The minister of finance says that the winter wheat in south and east Russia has succumbed to the frost and perished. There is more of it, but it is about all alike. We repeat that if the statements of the last few months concerning crops abroad can be relied upon, this country commands the situation.

The grain markets in this country have lost their grip to-day and prices are easier all around. There are no reasons for it, except a natural timidity of dealers. For years we have been led by English and continental markets until we have grown rather to like their discipline. We have not yet fully foisted in the idea that this year America dictates the markets of the world, and so it is that we are frightened out of our wits if prices advance on a large crop.

The markets opened firmer, but sellers predominated and prices broke off.

Corn has also declined in sympathy with wheat.

Closing, English markets are reported 2 pence higher on wheat and a penny on corn.

In New York July wheat closed at 99⅞c, a loss of 1⅜c; September at 97⅝c, a loss of ⅝c. July corn at 71c, a loss of ⅝c; September at 67c, a loss of ⅓c. In Chicago July wheat closed at 90⅛c, a loss of ⅝c; September at 88¼c, a loss of ⅝c. September corn at 58⅝c, a loss of ⅛c.

In Toledo we have had an active trade in wheat futures, and more for August than for all other deals. The sales aggregate 1,230,000 bu. The market opened about 1c higher, but declined under the influence of other markets and closed a shade under yesterday. On the call August wheat sold at 91⅛ to 92c, and December 95¼. After the call July sold at 90⅛c and closed at 92c loss of ⅛c. August sold at 92@92⅛c and closed at 90⅝c, a loss of ⅜c. September at 90c and closed at 91⅝c. December at 95⅛c and closed at 94, a loss of ⅛c.

In cash wheat the transactions were large, aggregating 250,000 bu. Early sales indicated an advance of 1c, but the market became easier and closed ½c below yesterday. No 2 soft sold at 93¼c and closed at 92c; No 3 soft at 91½c to 90½c.

Corn—Nothing doing.

Oats—No 2 at 31c; No 3, at 29½.

Rye—No 2 for August, 71¼c; No 3, at 67c; No 2 cash about 71¼c.

Clover seed—October at $4 35; December at $4 45.

Hon. Thomas E. Powell is one of them. He has attended 40 conventions of the Ohio democracy, but he declares that after this free coinage declaration he is through with it.—Boston Journal.

It will be news to Hon. Thomas E. Powell to learn that he is a kicker, and hat he has attended forty democratic state conventions. Our Tom is only forty-eight years old.

For the murder of A. C. Osborn, W. J. Elliott, of the Columbus Sunday Capital, is sent to the penitentiary for life. It is a fearful verdict, though not so awful as the cold-blooded murder which he committed. For a dozen or more years Mr. Elliott made his newspaper the medium for the most outrageous personal abuse and the shuiceway for all manner of sensationalism. He courted notoriety and invited personal attack in nearly every number of his Capital. His career closes in a felon's cell and the span of life is none too long for him to do penance for the deeds of a misspent life.

Do we want Canada to come into our fold, really? It sounds fine and patriotic to talk about our republic's boundaries stretching from ocean to ocean, from the Artic sea to the gulf. But business is business, and when we get down to an annexation as a matter of fact, instead of a matter of rhetoric, if we take Canada in we must take its indebtedness along with its territory. The dominion debt in 1890 was $237,533,212, and in this figure is not included the provincial and local debts. This dominion debt, according to the census, is $47.51 per capita, an increase of $7 per capita during the decade. An additional burden of debt has been assumed in provisions for aiding railroads, digging canals and for other public works. There is a sufficient national debt carried by the United States at present. If Canada were to be annexed the debt might be increased out of proportion to accruing benefits.

Southern industries are booming, according to the Manufacturers' Record, and it is worthy of note that the industries specified are not fostered by the present tariff law. These industries are timber, on which the rate was reduced; iron ore, on which the tax was not changed; coarse cotton and cotton-seed oil, on both of which rates were reduced. Natural conditions are promoting southern industries, and on natural conditions alone can any healthy business prosper. It has been argued that the change from an agricultural to a manufacturing south would create a sentiment in favor of protection in that section. It will never be true. High protection fallacies are being exposed in the very strongholds of that doctrine, in business-paralyzed New England, in labor-trouble-ridden Pennsylvania, in wool-fooled Ohio. High protection doctrines never were, and never will be, accepted in the south.

Let no pensioner applicant escape, appears to be the motto of Raum's pension sharks. One of the latest applicants to receive a bounty in token of appreciation for gallant service in the late war is James W. Lucas. James served in the confederate army until captured by our men a few months before Lee surrendered. Preferring his liberty to any principles at stake in the fighting going on, he obtained that liberty by volunteering on the union side, and was allowed to serve in one of the regiments around Washington from that time till the cruel war was over. This is a funny story, but Lucas' confederate career, his capture, imprisonment, and subsequent short service as "a patriot" is vouched for in affidavit by two men who served through the war in our army and helped to make him a prisoner. When it comes to looting the treasury, everything goes under this administration.

Of course it would not be right for Grover Cleveland to make speeches in the Ohio canvass, and we take it for granted that he has not the least idea of doing anything of the kind. It would be disgraceful, indeed, to see an ex-president of the United States going about making partisan speeches in a heated, and more or less dirty, political campaign. The bare suggestion is discreditable to those who make it.—Courier-Journal.

In endeavoring to run the business of the entire democratic party throughout the United States Mr. Watterson has undertaken a job entirely beyond his size The columns of his paper bear daily witness to this fact, and the above is an example. An ex-president of the United States has not lost his citizenship and a statesman should never be above serving his country in any honorable manner. The oncoming political campaign in Ohio will be heated, but it will not be "dirty" in any degree. It will be fought primarily upon a national issue, one it is of utmost importance to this entire country should be rightly settled. Grover Cleveland is the greatest living exponent of the sound principles and right doctrines advocated by the democracy on this issue. He may not see fit to make speeches during the Ohio campaign, but the suggestion that he should be invited is a proper one. His acceptance or declination is none of Mr. Watterson's business.

A vital question for the Fifty-second congress to consider will be the admission to statehood of the five remaining territories—Utah, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Arizona and Alaska. The old-time and healthful policy governing this point was that a territory to become a state must have population enough to elect a member of congress, according to the accepted proportion of members to inhabitants, and that, to any territory having such population admission as a state should not be denied. This common sense method was set aside, for partisan reasons, in the Fiftieth and Fifty-first congresses. New Mexico and Utah are by the old rule entitled to admission as states; the other three territories are not. All would be created states if the example of the Fifty-first congress were followed, which admitted Idaho to statehood with a population of 84,000, and Wyoming with a population which Porter's census shows to be less than 60,000. These states were created to assure a republican majority, and New Mexico was unjustly kept out because it will increase the democratic count. Whatever course the Fifty-second congress may pursue with the remaining territories there will be no more rotton boroughs made for the republicans.

CONVICT LABOR.

"What shall we do with our convicts?" is a question that will never be satisfactorily answered by leasing them out to private individuals, firms or corporations under contract to do work outside their prisons. The late trouble in Tennessee has been so far handled by Gov. Buchanan in a manner highly creditable to him. His sound counsel to the striking miners was received and acted upon by them in a manner equally creditable to them.

The law of Tennessee allows the leasing of convicts for such purposes as mining, and in calling the legislature together to give it an opportunity to repeal that law, Gov. Buchanan has done all he can, consistent with his duty to the state, for the miners. They realize this, and await the action of the legislature. But they will never again work in peace with convicts. There are not enough convicts to work all the mines. The situation promises to precipitate a succession of labor troubles in a state heretofore comparatively free from such troubles, unless the wisest statesmanship guides the legislators in their special session.

It is being argued that the state cannot afford to repeal the convict lease law, which now brings in to the state treasury hundreds of thousands of dollars annually, and if this law is repealed, this revenue will have to be raised by added taxation. But taxation is the usual and the proper way to raise state revenues, and Tennessee can as well afford to raise its revenue in the proper manner as can other states. Hiring out its convicts, if militia must be kept in the field to protect them, will not be found an economical course, anyway. But the highest reason for the abolishment of the system is that it is wrong, that it degrades the honest citizens of a state to force them into competition for work with criminals. Honest toil and convict labor cannot and ought not to be brought together.

New York papers have a detailed and horrible story of a woman prisoner assaulted in a cell of the station house by two policemen. And still the law of the state providing for police matrons is evaded in New York city.

Another Landslide.

The effect of these big crops of cotton and grain, with short crops of money in the farmers' pockets, will be an interesting thing to observe. Politically, the situation does not promise well for the republican statesmen who claim that the big crops were sent on account of their influence with Providence. With little money the margin of tax the farmers must pay to protected monopolists on account of McKinley is apt to be closely scrutinized. The result may be another landslide that will bury the party of robber tariffs and financial monopolists out of sight forever.—St. Louis Republic.

Blaine's the Man.

Mr. Blaine is not a candidate in the sense that he is seeking the nomination, but if the convention sees the wisdom of his policy of reciprocity as an appeasing crumb to the tariff reformers of the party and urges him to take the nomination there is no reason, either as a party policy or to please anxious candidates, why he should refuse it. In such an event he would, so far as is known publicly, be violating no trust reposed in him. Every day makes it clearer that Mr. Blaine will be the republican nominee for president.—Detroit News.

After Icicle John.

The purpose of Senator Peffer and Sockless Jerry Simpson have in coming to Ohio to speak this campaign, is not so much to help Campbell as it is to take the scalp of John Sherman and hang it by the side of that of ex-Senator Ingalls at the Alliance belt.—Columbus Dispatch.

The New Law.

This year Ohio democrats will enjoy the benefits of the new ballot law, framed after the Australian system. Under such a law it will be impossible for the owners of protected industries to terrorize their workmen as in the past.—Chicago Times.

Probabilities First Class.

With the splendid chance Gov. Campbell has for again carrying the state, aided by this internal war in the Republican camp, the probabilities of a Democrat succeeding Senator Sherman are first class.—New Orleans Delta.

Sharply Drawn Choice.

No two candidates could possibly present a more sharply drawn choice to the voters of Ohio. McKinley's name is a synonym for extreme protection. Campbell is an equally pronounced tariff reformer.—Boston Globe.

Pious Emotions

Always Something Wrong.

There is always something wrong about the sheep tariff. Once it did not work on account of army overcoats being thrown on the market. Now it will not fly because Ohio raisers have the wrong breed of sheep. It is like the Keely motor.—Massillonian.

Looks Queer.

Secretary Foster puts Maj. McKinley's majority in Ohio at 75,000. That estimate looks almost as queer as a revised treasury debt statement.—Boston Herald.

Too Soft a Snap.

HAS THERE BEEN FRAUD

In the Letting of the Gas Piping Contracts?

If so, Now is the Time to Show it Up.

Red Hot Meeting of Natural Gas Board — President Parsons Makes Explanation—Detwiler Syndicate Asks to be Relieved.

As anticipated there was music at the meeting of the board of natural gas trustees last evening. The BEE yesterday outlined the result of the meeting.

One of the characteristics of the sessions of the board is that the afterpiece, like the customs of the English stage, is always of a somewhat comic nature.

Dr. Jones had moved to adjourn as it was getting late, when Secretary Brown incidentally remarked that there were a few matters yet on his desk to be disposed of, and he supposed it would not take over five minutes to get through with him.

"The first thing," said the secretary, "is the contract with the Lafayette Construction company."

Dr. Jones moved that it be referred back to the manager.

Mr. Brown moved it be referred to the committee on city plant for a thorough investigation, and to report on the cost of pipe as compared with the cost of similiar pipe already purchased, and also to report on the streets in which the pipe were to be laid and the size of pipe. The contract, Mr. Brown sarcastically remarked, was one of those iniquitous documents that were causing so much comment. He proposed that inasmuch as charges of dishonesty and fraud had been charged against a majority of the board, that these charges be investigated. The explanation of President Parsons (given below) relative to the figures presented to the public by him (Parsons) would be very plausible were it not for the fact that Mr. Parsons was aware that the statement was false when he made it.

President Parsons—"That is false."

Mr. Brown—"It is not. You gave Mr. Greene, Mr. Jones and myself the figures two days before you made them public."

Mr. Parsons—"I did not know until Friday that the figures were incorrect. Why, it would have been silly for me to present such a statement knowingly."

Mr. Brown—"And yet you reiterated the same statement in the public press Saturday and Sunday."

Mr. Parson—"I said nothing but what I have the figures to prove."

Mr. Brown—Very well. Vote for this motion and then you will have an opportunity of proving it."

The discussion waxed warm, during which Mr. Parsons' knowledge of the falseness of the published statement was again referred to.

Mr. Parsons indignantly denied the allegation.

Mr. Greene—"Mr. Parsons, did I not tell you at one conference at which you endorsed the contract that your figures were false?"

Mr. Parsons—"I don't recollect. We were all pretty hot at that conference."

Mr. Greene—"I was not hot, and I remember very distinctly."

Mr. Brown—"Let me ask you, Mr. Parsons, have you not you indorsed the contract with Park, Foster & Co, since the contract was signed?"

Mr. Parsons—"I have not done anything of the kind."

Mr. Brown—"Mr. Foster tells me that you have. He is here and can speak for himself."

Mr. Foster, who was present, was asked what he had to say.

"When I learned that Mr. Parsons was opposed to the contract," he said, "I went to him and said I was willing to throw it up and he asked me not to do it, and that he would stand by me."

Mr. Parsons—"Well, and I propose standing by you."

This was greeted with laughter, in which everyone joined.

Mr. Parsons then said that in self defense he was prepared to defend his position by some figures.

He then produced a comparison of prices based on a 67-mile contract which summarized about as follows:

67 miles in another city	$249,575
57 miles, gas trustees estimate	210,000
67 miles, present contract	355 000

The difference in the prices, he said, between the first and third was $85,421, and between the trustees' own estimate and that of the present contract $134 000.

Mr. Brown said the cost of building the main line was owing to similar tactics that are now being employed, increased to about $200,000 over and above the original estimate. He had no doubt but that the board would have a similar experience in piping the city, at least it looked that way.

The contract was referred.

Mr. Parsons, upon calling the board to order, said he desired to make an explanation relative to the famous statement on the comparative price of pipe. The explanation is as follows:

I desire to make the following statement in relation to a comparison of prices on pipe, etc., prepared for me by John P. Manton, assistant secretary, and submitted by me to this board at our meeting on Friday, July 24.

On the day (July 18, 1891,) when the bids of Parks Foster & Co. and the Lafayette Construction company were opened, I addressed the following letter to Manager Tobey:

H. A. Tobey, Esq., Manager:

DEAR SIR—Please make, for the information of the board, a comparison of prices on all pipes and fittings embraced in the bids, from prices for the same last received from manufacturers and on file in this office. Yours truly,

JOHN E. PARSONS, President.

On the day the bids were to be considered by the board, I called upon Manager Tobey for the comparison and was informed that Assistant Secretary Manton was preparing it. I stepped over to Mr. Manton's desk and received the statement and looked at it for a moment, and as it was only two lines of figures with the difference struck, I suggested that some note of explanation should be given, and as Mr. Manton did not at once comprehend just what I desired, I wrote on a pad about what I thought it should be and said that in substance; but you need not confine yourself to my language. After it was finished Mr. Manton handed it to me and I submitted it to some of the members of the board, then placed it in my pocket and did not discover until my attention was called to it, at the last meeting of this board, that it was not the comparison I desired or requested of Manager Tobey, but instead it was, on the one hand, the price of pipe on board of cars at Toledo, on the other it was the price of pipe laid in the trenches, which of course made quite a difference in the comparison. But while this is the case and of course reduces the profit on the contract, I believe I am fully prepared to substantiate, by figures, that the profit on the two contracts before mentioned, covering about sixty-seven miles of piping in the city, is as I stated at our meeting on Friday.

I sincerely regret that I should have submitted a paper for the consideration of the board so wide of the mark as the one presented by me on Friday, but I accepted it as a correct reply to my letter to Manager Tobey without verifying it.

Respectfully,

JOHN E. PARSONS.

Dr. Jones moved that the communication be placed on file.

At this point Mr. Parks Foster stepped forward and presented the following letter:

GENTLEMEN: We herewith respectfully ask to be relieved of the contract entered into with your board on Tuesday, July 21, for laying natural gas mains in districts 3 and 7 in the city of Toledo, and our reasons for asking to be so relieved are as follows:

1. For the reason of the division in your board and probable difficulty of future negotiations, which will be necessary should the contract be carried out.

2. Because of the intimation that there is corruption and excessive price for the work contemplated.

3. The utter impossibility of profitably and satisfactorily doing the work with the sentiment both in and out of the board working in opposition to the enterprise.

Hoping that your board will receive this communication in the spirit that it is sent, and that you will promptly relieve us of all obligations, and with best wishes for the continued prosperity of the pipe line, we remain.

Very respectfully,

PARKS FOSTER & CO.

The communication was laid over until later.

It was a matter of considerable surprise when Mr. Brown presented a petition for the construction of service lines on Scottwood avenue, signed by the gentlemen who at the last meeting so strenuously opposed it—M. A. Scott, L. S. Baumgardner, F. B. Dodge, F. J. Scott and others.

Mr. Brown made a personal explanation in the matter, the substance of which was published in the BEE yesterday. The manager was instructed to proceed with the construction of the line.

Parks Foster's letter was then taken up.

Dr. Jones moved to refer it to the committee on city plant.

Mr. Brown said the contract called for a beginning of work at once, therefore some action should be taken.

Dr. Jones withdrew his motion.

Mr. Brown moved that Parks Foster & Co. be released from their contract.

Mr. Backus seconded the motion.

Inasmuch as Mr. Parsons was said to be in favor of the contract, it was agreed between three of the members to place him on record, and to give him an opportunity of so doing. Mr. Brown was to support a motion to release the contractors, Mr. Parsons casting the deciding vote.

The vote stood—Aye, Backus, Brown, Parsons; no, Greene and Jones.

Before the vote was announced Mr. Brown changed his vote and the motion was lost.

The committee on city plant recommended that the line to Boices' brickyard be laid.

Mr. Parsons opposed the laying of the line on the plans proposed.

A motion in accordance with the recommendation was adopted, Messrs. Backus and Parsons voting no.

The contract calls for the construction of the line to Air Line Junction. The contractor is Mr. Fred Boice.

Mr. Backus opposed laying it further than the brickyards.

Mr. Greene said the object was to get the gas to the consumers.

Mr. Brown said there are 250 families at Air Line Junction ready to make contracts for gas as soon as it gets there.

The adoption of new districts was then taken up. District No. 1, subdivision, including the First ward, was discussed, and districts, including wards 1, 2, 4 and 8, were adopted.

It was also decided to lay a pipe on Washington street as soon as the property owners raised the necessary money.

Mr. Greene pointed out that the pavement was about being laid, and suggested that the line be laid under the Foster contract inasmuch as the line would be a large feeder. It was so ordered.

Claims amounting to $1,620 were ordered paid.

Manager Tobey in his report stated that the Ellis contract was finished, and recommended that lines be laid on Washington and Buckeye streets, the latter a 6-inch main to supply the gas works.

LIKE TOLEDO REPUBLICANS.

Another Batch of Needless Resolutions.

The Daughters of the American Revolution Fall Out With Their Vice President.

Washington, July 28.—There is trouble among the ladies of the national society of the Daughters of the American revolution and it has resulted in the removal from office of Mrs. Flora Adams Darling, the authoress, vice president in charge of the organization of chapters.

At a recent meeting the national board of management, among whose members are the wives of President Harrison, Justice Field, Gen. Greeley, ex-Minister Foster and Senator Cockrell, the following resolution was adopted unanimously:

"Whereas, Mrs. Flora Adams Darling, vice-president in charge of the organization of chapters of the daughters of the American revolution, has refused to recognize the authority of the national board of management, and to report her action to the same, and has forbidden the use of her name and threatened the board with legal proceedings, and has declared in writing that her relations with the board are ended and has represented the board as being her appointees and subject to her direction, and has charged members of the board with being engaged in conspiring against her, and has persistently attempted to discredit the authority of the board with the members of the society.

Now, therefore, the national board of management, believing that the interests of the society demand her removal from office do declare that Mrs. Flora Adams Darling is hereby removed from the office of vice president in charge of the organization of chapters of the daughters of the American revolution and that said office is hereby declared vacant.

Mrs. Harrison was not present when the resolution was adopted.

Yesterday the board issued a circular letter giving in detail the charges contained in the resolution.

RAUM AND THE SOLDIER.

How Pensions are Wrongly Granted.

Deserving Union Soldiers Neglected While Confederate Soldiers Get an Allowance.

Louisville, Ky., July 28.—On May 19 the Courier-Journal published a story about the pensioning of James W. Lucas, said to be an ex-confederate soldier, now living at Princeton, Caldwell county. Lucas, it was said, had been told that it was so easy to get a pension that he concluded to try for one, which was procured without trouble.

Commissioner Raum was sent a copy of the paper containing the story, and on July 2 wrote to Mr. Watterson a lengthy statement complaining that the department had been unjustly treated and citing the records and affidavits upon which the pension was issued.

E. M. Johnson, the correspondent who sent the original dispatch, immediately set about collecting the proofs of his story. He had no trouble about this, as many men living in Lucas' neighborhood were his comrades in the confederate army.

One of these is James Fool, jailor of Rockcastle county; another is Daniel B. Rucker, a prominent farmer. Finally William M. Campbell clinched the story with an affidavit that he was second lieutenant of Company D, Second regiment, Kentucky cavalry (confederate), and that Lucas enlisted in that regiment when it was organized in September, 1862.

Mr. Campbell states that Lucas was in the company for some time, but does not recall for how long.

General Raum said in his statement that Lucas' name was on the adjutant general's record as a member of Company I, Third Kentucky cavalry (federal), and that a copy of this report is on file in the Caldwell county clerk's office.

Mr. Johnson swears that he has examined the report and that Lucas' name is not thereon. He then charges that Lucas told several citizens, whose names he gives, and who are citizens of Caldwell county, that in February, 1865, he killed a federal soldier named Joseph Reynolds, who had hidden in the house of a man named Gardner, near Princeton, just after a battle there.

Mrs. Gardner begged for the federal's life, but Lucas killed him when she was standing so close that the blood spattered on her dress.

A. W. Pollard is an ex-federal and pensioner. He says he thinks that just before the close of the war Lucas was captured by federals at Hopkinsville and joined them.

Their Retort.

When McKinley makes a speech on the tariff every sheep in Ohio will say "Ba-a-a-h!"—Columbus Post.

BARBARA MOSS ABROAD.

In the Heart of Auld Scotia on a High Holiday.

High, Breezy, Beautiful, and Storied Ayr.

Robbie Burns and the Banks o' Bonnie Doon — Tam o' Shanter's Inn—Alloway Kirk—The Monument Unveiled.

Staff Correspondence Toledo Bee:

Ayr, July 13.—On Wednesday, 8th of July, we packed off brisk and early for "the land of Burns," fifty miles by rail, from Glasgow. It rained when we started but was all the brighter and sweeter for it when the sun shone out, which it did presently.

This was our first experience in compartment cars, which are not so bad when a party is enough in number to fill one. It's sort of cosy to have it all to yourselves, but would seem like very neighborly proximity to strangers. Americans are no longer classed with fools and princes in first-class travel; as a rule they take third-class compartments, which are in the same coach with first-class, the difference being in the upholstering, finish, etc., and in the class of people you are likely to meet.

The compartments are seated both sides like an omnibus, making it not so pleasant for some who must ride backwards. They are cushioned high up the back with stuff, have racks running the width of the coach for small luggage, and doors with glass windows like our hacks, that let down with a strap. And thus we rattled out of the Glasgow & Southern depot from under its immense roof of glass, where trains arrive and depart.

The excursion rate was 75 cents for the round trip. Once out of the busy, noisy city the green fields and gardens on the gentle slopes either side delight the eye. There are the hawthorn hedges, the low, ivy-covered stone walls dividing the fields which bear every shade of green according to the kind of crop. There are the elegant stone mansions of the owners and the lowly stone cottages of the laborer for hire, and the small farmer. There are occasional signs "Land for feu," which means "for rent." There are sheep and cattle feeding in the quiet pastures and here and there and everywhere are groups and belts of trees, beech, elm, hawthorn, and beside little rills of water the silver-green willows.

The perfectly clean and well-cultivated condition of every inch of soil strikes the American, accustomed as he is to "worm fences" and the prodigal waste of land. A Scotch or English gardener would make his fortune in the fence corners and untouched spots on an American farm.

We pass through Paisley, famous for its woolens and its shawls, and through other factory towns with singing names —Kilbernie, Kilwinning, Troon, Irvine. It was at Irvine that Bobbie Burns went to learn to be a flax breaker so he could earn money enough to enable him to marry. The susceptible Bobbie smiled on many a bonnie lassie, but being a poor plough-boy he could express his passion and admiration only in poetry which cost a trifle for paper, pencils and spare moments.

Alas, poor Bobbie! could he have seen, in prophetic vision, every scrap of that paper that could be found, treasured, labeled, cased in glass and shown to lovers from the far corners of the earth; could the pence that drop into the guard's hands for one day at his monument have dropped into his empty pocket when he most needed them—perhaps he wouldn't have died so early and so mistakenly and perhaps he wouldn't have sung the touching heart strains that come too frequently out of the depths of human anguish.

As we near the royal borough of Ayr we get a sniff of salt water and breezes. The fields are flecked with white daisies so thick it looks as if a light snow storm had fallen over the grass and everywhere the buttercups keep them close company, our own dear daisies and butter cups; the very same, only our daisies just like these grow in gardens and green houses. But the taller, larger marguerites grow along the Massachusetts roadsides in the same profusion. They are left because they are loved, for no other "weed" grows beside them. Now we understand Jean Ingelow's "Heigho, daisies and buttercups."

The sky is the loveliest blue, the air pleasant, and lingering with a little haze veiling the Dundonald hills, "Carrick's sloping height," and dim in the blue distance lifts the rounded top of massive Ben Lomond.

High, breezy, beautiful, storied Ayr, with its lovely sea harbor on one side and its river on the other. It is not alone because of its poet that it is known and prosperous. It has good rail connections with the principal cities of the country and is growing in fame as a summer resort. The highways out of the town in any direction are splendid stone roads in perfect condition, bounded either side by stone walls with overhanging trees and shrubs or by well-kept hedges, and back of these the most beautiful and picturesque highlands on the coast with many stately homes. You who have pictured Burns as toiling in uninviting fields, disabuse your mind at once of the error. It was not always so beautiful as now with the aid of man's hand and money, but nature was, perhaps, even more lavish. The bonny Doon is bonny if Burns had never sung it so.

The sound of a half dozen bagpipes, a band, with the musicians in white blouses, blue and green tartan kilts, Scotch caps, short, plaid stockings which leave the knees bare and with plaid ribbons flying from every pipe of their instruments, greeted us. Now we were in the very heart of Auld Scotia on a high holiday. The town has 25,000 inhabitants, fine, broad streets and many handsome buildings. Decorations, streamers and banners fluttered from window and housetop. The same bustle and crowd that attends such festivities everywhere was here as well. The monument in the public square wears its linen mantle, and military guards, masonic and other societies are marching to the railway stations to welcome delegations. The red-coat soldiers and the Scottish Highlanders, bearing elegant banners, give color and beauty to the scene.

We hire a wagonette that will take the whole party, buy strawberries (the sweetest and richest I ever saw), buns, meat pies, sweet cakes, etc., for luncheon, at a bake shop next "Tam O'Shanter's inn," and away we go, two miles out, over the fine Maybole road to visit the Kirk of Alloway, the brigs o' Doon, and the romantic and picturesque memorial park with its elegant monument.

The birds which broke puir Robbie's heart with their music are singing in the hedges the same to-day. Every blade of grass is fragrant with the memory of him who trod these winding ways with an intense joy or an intense sorrow always tugging at his heart strings. Such is the poet's doom—

They learn in suffering what they teach in song.

Following a turn in the road where the trees almost meet over our heads we see old Alloway Kirk in the midst of the ancient burial ground, one of the most interesting ruins in Scotland, because it has been left for nature's restoration. The old trees are scattered about as nature placed them, the kirk is roofless and the blackened bell bearing the date 1657 hangs silent in the dismantled tower. It was a small chapel with gothic gables and rude, small arched windows. The glossy English ivy completely mantles the inside walls. In the second room, divided from the first by a thick stone wall, is a sarcophagus, so green with lichen you cannot decipher the inscription, except the date, 1621, and two figures uncertain.

The old, old stones in the kirkyard bear hideous skull and crossbones and long stories about the deceased which seem to us untranslatable with age and Scotch. The kirk was built in 1516.

A broad slab marks the grave of William Burns, the poet's father, and Agnes Brown, his mother. The father was a strong, sagacious man and deeply religious and the mother had a romantic disposition and rich imagination. The ballads and legends which she sang and told to wee Robbie, with the gift which he inherited, fixed the child's destiny. Strangely enough, he who wrote musical lines that almost sing themselves, could scarcely distinguish one air from another, during his boyhood, but became so much improved he could write words for music already arranged.

The last grave made in the ground was for the youngest sister of Burns, Mrs. Begg, who was laid here in 1856. Burns died in 1796, aged 37, and was buried at Dumfries, where he held a government office, and where he wrote some of his purest lyrics and went down into the dissipation that ended in death.

Past this kirk flew Tam O'Shanter on his famous midnight ride with the witches after him, around the bend and down to the old stone brig. Thither we went, overshadowed by the park trees and overlooked by the stately monument, which was all open common that night of the witches. On the mossy old "brig" we found a mossy old man who recited the whole of Tam O'Shanter's ride for us as we never heard it before and never shall again. I don't know if he were a ghost out of dreamland or a man wagging his jaw for pennies, nor do I care, it made the picture seem more real, and with a strange fascination upon us we sought our luncheon spot on the shaded brink of "Bonnie Doon," dear, beautiful water flowing with a murmuring sound over a pebbly bed. Then we stood in a group and sang "Ye banks and braes," shook hands, brushed away our crumbs, and betook ourselves to the monument.

It is a handsome granite structure, something more than sixty feet high and placed on a commanding eminence in the park. From its winding galleries a grand view is had. In the room beneath the galleries are the Burns relics: Robbie's hair and Jeanie's set in old-fashioned rings, Highland Mary's Bible, original manuscript and various other souvenirs, as well as views, albums, and other remembrances for sale. Down the hill amid the flowering shrubs, in a little house built for them, are life-size statues of "Souter, Johnny and Tam." They are sitting and taking a mug of ale, and you will smile back into their faces if you look at them, the mirthful expression is so catching. Tam's true name was Douglas Stewart, and he worked the Shanter farm.

As it appears to-day there can scarcely be a lovelier spot on earth than the scene viewed from the park eminence, and add to it the charm of association, realizing that these are the very banks and braes and "brigs" and dells and daisies that wakened and fed the genius and love of Burns, and you will thank the Lord for the bright day, and the opportunity for beholding it all.

Back in the town, the crowds are gathered about the square, the choir of many voices sing Old Hundred, Sir Archibald Campbell, Most Worshipful Grand Master Mason of Scotland, makes a felicitous address, U. S. Consul Bruce of Edinboro' recites a poem, the bagpipe band marches and plays, the red-coats and bare-kneed kilted Highlanders form in procession, the fine military band succeeds the pipes, somebody pulls the cord and the heroic figure and natural face of Burns answer the huzzas that arise from the grand stands, housetops, windows and streets.

I send you a couple verses from Consul Bruce's recitation:

The Auld Brig hails wi' hearty cheer,
The river, Ayr, Burns is here:
The bard who links us all to fame,
And blends his own with Scotia's name.

* * * * * *

Then, welcome, Burns, from shore to shore,
All hail our Robin evermore!
Though late, we greet the Ploughman's name,
Full in the morning of his fame.

The day is over. As we pass out the gates to the station we buy a song for the occasion, composed by Sir Archibald Campbell. It is dreadful for the most remote relatives of Tom Campbell to write such poetry for a Burns memorial. Here is a specimen:

His Scots who bae wi' Wallace bled
His dare o' Auld Lang Syne.
His Highland Mary and bonny Jean,
Scenes yet fresh in each mind.
His Tam O'Shanter and Twa Dogs,
The bonds of fame he left Burns.
While the Copar still can draw the tears
Though gone is Robbie Burns.

CHORUS.

Then give a hearty cheer boys,
Wake up the hills and dales,
When Sir Archibald Campbell, Burns'
Monument unveils.

The Central Chandelier Company has rented the foundry and machine shops of Shaw, Kendall & Co. for the present and operations therein began to-day.

"We propose going right along," said Mr. H. T. Yaryan this morning. "Our present quarters we have found too small for our increasing business, and we must either enlarge or do something else."

The insurance adjusters arrived in the city this morning and will hustle until the losses are settled. Mr. Yaryan said this morning that he did not believe the loss to his company would be over $15,000.

Central Chandelier Company Secures Quarters.

The company has also about completed arrangements to locate their business in the Isaac D. Smead building on Huron street.

D. H. Baldwin & Co., manufacturers and wholesale dealers in pianos and organs, have the refusal of the building, but as this firm is in no particular hurry, a deal will be made whereby they will occupy the Bronson block, recently gutted by fire, after it is repaired, and the Chandelier company will then be able to move into quarters at once.

The Lawyers Will Profit.

Westboro, Mass., July 28.—A serious controversy has arisen between the recently suspended Livingstone Cycle Manufacturing company and their officers. The matter has been placed in the hands of attorneys and litigation concerning the $127,000 assets will follow.

The officers claim the trustees have failed to fulfill their agreement and that they have no authority to dispose of property to protect the money they put in, but must take their chances with the rest of the creditors.

Columbus, July 28.—Albert Reiter, of Toledo, has been transferred from the penitentiary to Lancaster.

The people of Thessaly were the first to break horses for service in war, and their proficiency as equestrians probably first gave rise to the ancient myth that their country was originally inhabited by centaurs, fabulous creatures supposed to be half horse and half man.

A DAMASCUS BLADE.

This crescent-shaped and flexile blade,
With time dulled, tawny gold inlaid,
'Neath skies that knew the Eastern star
Was found within an old bazar.
I mind me well, how, passing by,
We caught the merchant's gleaming eye,
Where in his dim recess he sat
Upon his precious Persian mat.
Urbane he was and grave of mien,
This patriarchal Damascene;
He lured us to his small divan,
A sherbet-boy for coffee ran,
And, while we sipped, he laid before
Our widening eyes his wondrous store.

There from worn sheaths, once bright with gilt,
We saw protrude the jeweled hilt;
There ivory from Bengal brought
With Saracenic art was wrought;
And there keen steel was looked upon
That like moon-burnished water shown.
But most of all on me laid hold
This blade, with letters strangely scrolled—
Some curious Koran text, no doubt,
Bidding the warrior's heart be stout—
And, when we took our way afar,
I bore it from the old bazar.

He had a deadly supple wrist
Who wielded it of yore, I wist,
And oft, mayhap, in goodly stead,
He flashed it o'er his turbaned head
When some Crusader, hare and grim,
In the thick press confronted him.
Perchance his zealous soul now roves
In peaceful paradisial groves;
His blade—I wonder does he know?
Is nothing but a curio!
Ah! what a fate its fate has been—
The blade that cleft for Saladin!
—Clinton Scollard, in Lippincott's.

Oxygen is the most abundant of all the elements; it composes at least one-third of the earth, one-fifth of the atmosphere and eight-ninths by weight of all the water on the globe; is also a very important constituent of all minerals, animals and vegetables.

Observation stepladders are the latest innovation in the Belgian field artillery. They are intended to enable the commander of a concealed battery to better detect the fire of the gunners. Fish ought to be very plentiful and cheap, as most of them grow and increase without any care from man. It is said that each flounder, for instance, produces many millions of eggs. The sea produces 1,000,000 eggs, a place not less than 3,000,000, while a large turbot has been credited with the deposition of 11,000,000 or 12,000,000 of eggs.

The working classes of Italy are poorly fed. The consumption of meat is scant, except on feast days, and but little wine is drunk. Living is almost exclusively confined to cereals (wheat, maize, rice), with vegetables and other green herbs cooked with bacon. The food in general is very deficient in nitrogenous qualities, the bulk of which is derived from vegetables rather than from animal food.

All duels among officers of the Italian army are hereafter to be matters of special investigation by the corps commanders. The circular of the Italian war minister to this effect states the object of the innovation to be the limiting of dueling to affairs of honor. Many duels of Italian officers are now for trivial causes. Hereafter officers who fight for such reasons will be severely disciplined.

It is the little things of life that tax one's nerves the most, as a stalwart youth of Kansas found when he accepted a wager that he could not stand a quart of water dropped into his open hand drop by drop from a height of three feet. Before 500 drops had fallen into his hand he almost cried with pain and said he had enough. After a little water had fallen each drop seemed to crush his hand, and a blister in the center of it was the result.

A story of the trying times of the war of 1812 comes from an old Bath, Me., sail maker. Money was an unknown commodity along the Maine coast and barter the invariable rule. By and by when the skies began to brighten, a skipper offered to pay in cash for a lot of fish purchased of a Phippsburg party. It was a great novelty, and the fisherman shook his head dubiously, exclaiming: "No, you can't have them, I must have rum—rum and molasses—or you can't have the fish."

The San Francisco Evening Bulletin admits that California, which is usually described by its newspapers as an earthly paradise, complete in every detail, is singularly deficient in song birds. The English sparrow is charged with having driven away the linnet, which is represented to have been abundant in the coast countries a few years ago. Associations have been formed for the importation and naturalization of singing birds.

A remarkable incident is reported from Dublin. While three young ladies were bathing near the coast guard station, the attention of some gentlemen on the bank was attracted by the succession of piercing shrieks from the bathers. One of the ladies appeared to be struggling in the grip of an enormous and infuriated jelly fish, which the lady's unaided efforts could not shake off. Fortunately a younger lady seized a stick which was on the shore and dashing into the water engaged in combat with the tenacious invertebrate. A desperate struggle ensued, but the courage exhibited by the gallant rescuer finally secured the safety of her companion, the animal succumbing to the repeated stabs of the stick. The elder lady was severely stung, and remains in a precarious condition. The jelly fish measured 9 feet in the length of its tentacles.

QUIET SESSION

Of the Board of Aldermen Last Night.

Refuse to Allow the Harbormaster a Horse—Want Light on an Illuminating Subject.

The board of aldermen held an uneventful session last evening and passed the business on the schedule with almost no discussion. All members were present, and there was a good lobby on hand, but the latter did not seem to have any particular business and kept very quiet. In the absence of Reading Clerk Kirby, Assistant Solicitor Watts acted in his place.

Mr. Potter presented a resolution granting to the property owners on Missouri street the right to pave with asphalt from Collingwood avenue to a point 90 feet east, at their own expense. This was adopted.

Mr. Potter introduced a resolution asking the Welsbach Light company to furnish the council with information on the cost of their lights and how much gas is used. Referred to the committee on gas.

Auditor Walker presented a statement of the bridge fund, which showed it to be very low, and also the report of the meeting of the ways and means and health committee last Thursday evening. This report was adopted, except that part relating to the pest house, which was referred back on account of some misunderstanding with the sisters at St. Vincent's.

A resolution was adopted directing the auditor to issue $10,000 of sanitary bonds.

A resolution directing the Consolidated Street Railway company to run street cars on Cherry street from Bancroft to Collingwood or forfeit their franchise, was read. On motion of Mr. Huberich it was referred back to the committee.

From the committee on streets ordinances were passed to pave Monroe street with asphalt from the old city line to Bancroft street; to pave Beacon street from Union to Cherry; to pave Islington street from Collingwood avenue to Fulton street.

When the ordinance was read to pave Fifteenth street from Madison to Adams, Mr. Macomber stated that the property owners were much surprised that this ordinance called for a 24 foot pavement when they wanted 26 feet and supposed the legislation was for that width. He allowed the ordinance to pass, however.

Ordinances were passed to turnpike Central avenue, Cherry to Comstock; to turnpike Comstock avenue, Franklin to Locust; to turnpike Locust street, Franklin to Comstock.

A resolution was adopted to pave Fifteenth street, Washington street to T., St. L. & K. C. railway.

The clerk was directed to advertise the petition for the vacation of part of Griffin street.

The street commissioner was directed to grade the intersections of South street and Maumee avenue and Michigan street and Speilbusch avenue.

An ordinance to accept the plat of Parks & Dowd's addition was passed.

In accordance with the resolution of the ways and means committee, Mr. Potter presented a resolution allowing the harbor master $25 per month for the use of a horse. The resolution was lost. Mr. Potter and Leroux only voting for it.

On motion of Mr. Potter the matter of issuing three free licenses was referred to the committee on rules and by-laws.

Business from the other board was all adopted.

THE NEW ARMORY.

Bids Opened for Its Construction—Meeting of Building Board This Afternoon.

The armory building board met at Col. Smead's office yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock, and opened sealed proposals for the construction of the armory building. The notice to contractors called for separate bids on construction and a single supporting truss.

The following bids were submitted:

M. Babbit—$39,328, without truss.

Richard Hallersley — $35,700, without truss.

James Hales—$36,235, without truss.

Shehy & Dirkman—$34,500; combination truss, $47,500.

Carl Sumu—$36,375, without truss.

Gorman Bros.—$34,240, without truss.

A. Bently—$55,000, including iron truss.

John L. Burns—$38,200.

Martin T. Graham—$31,556.

J. B. Armsman—$32,000, without filling lot; $35,000 with filling.

Alexander Dawson — $33,500, without truss.

Spanker & Winker—$34,800, without truss.

TRUSS.

	Iron	Combination
Smith Bridge Co	$16,400	$12,980
King Bridge Co	17,360	13,805
Toledo Bridge Co	13,800	11,365
Massillon Bridge Co	14,300	10,800

On motion of Mr. Milburn the awarding of the contract was deferred to give the board time to consider the bids and arrive at some conclusion as to what amount could be expended for building purposes.

The plans and specifications provides for all inside finishing and improvements with the exception of lockers and the heating of the drill hall.

This would necessitate an expenditure, as roughly estimated by the board, of $3,500, which with the cost of the building proper, house, lot and filling, crowds the appropriation to a point where a few hundred dollars cuts quite a figure.

The trust is an important factor in the construction of the building, and as there was considerable difference in the cast of the iron and combination truss, the chair appointed Messrs. Milburn, Harbeck and Architect Wecker, as a committee to look the matter up, and report to the board at the next meeting.

The board then adjourned until 3 o'clock this afternoon, when Col. Bunker, who was unable to attend, will be present, and a general discussion of the situation will be in order.

The board will then meet with the contractors who will be given an opportunity to be heard, after which the contract will be awarded.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

Complaint as to the Police Board.

TO THE EDITOR: Some weeks ago, shortly after the new administration of the city began business, the press chronicled the astonishing fact that 14 members of the police force had been dismissed—discharged from the force without trial, and no good substantial reason was alleged, save the general one stated by the mayor to a reporter, "I propose to weed out the force."

Some of the men, nearly all of them in fact, were old, well tried and faithful members of the force, against whom not a charge was brought.

It happened about the time that a spasm was taken by city officials to enforce the Sunday law as to one line of business—saloons.

(Query: Were these patrolmen summarily discharged to make room for ward bums and petty politicians?)

Apropos to the incident of official inconsistency and injustice above referred to, comes the facts following, to wit:

Recently Patrolman Krout, when under about half pressure of steam, wantonly and spitefully arrested a business man of St. Clair street because the latter had reported said Krout for unofficial conduct. This Krout had previously used abusive and insulting language; if a private citizen had used the same language and violent manner he would have been arrested for "disturbance." And because of his violent abusive and insulting language said Krout was reported to headquarters by the aforesaid business man, and thereupon this doughty(?) policeman proceeded to arrest this man who reported him—perpetrated this outrage just as the latter was leaving the police office, "to get even," to wreak his spite upon a citizen for doing what every citizen has the right to do, and the duty to do. Then said Krout, to give color of law and reason for the outrage, entered the charges of "drunk" and "disturbance" against the citizen.

The citizen was not put on trial; but owing to the illness of some of his witnesses, on the advice of an ex-attorney he settled that case by paying the costs, intending at the proper time to bring the matter before the police board. This intent he carried out; he filed charges against said Krout, alleging not only the wanton, spiteful and illegal act of personal outrage, above described, but also alleging that said Krout was accustomed to spend an hour or more nightly in the shooting gallery, near the upper end of Summit street, and a list of six or eight reputable witnesses was handed in to the Clerk Berney.

Yet the latter body "tabled" the charges; that board on the d x it of the redoubtable Sunday saloon closing warrior, that would summarily dismiss 14 policemen, good and true, disgrace them without trial or cause, refuses to receive the evidence of the bad sourkrout they make use of!!!

Now, we say, Mr. Editor and fellow citizens, it is time a little hole was punched in the city gas bag officials. It is true these valorous—nix valiant—warriors whose every effort and object is pretense and a sham, be required to "haul in their horns." It is time such officials were taught that they are servants of the people, not bosses; and that their official conduct must be characterized by justice, or it will be without law.

The police board may stultify itself by dismissing in disgrace a number of old, well-tried members of the force; but that body should be taught that when a reputable citizen prefers charges against an official and stands ready with witnesses to make good such charges, the board is in duty bound to hear the case and give it a candid consideration.

To close saloons on Sunday may be wise; to needlessly disgrace all servants is unwise; to refuse to investigate an incompetent petted policeman is unjust; to use bad sourkrout is unhealthy.

MIDSUMMER MAGAZINES.

There is a Wealth of Diversified Reading Offered This Month,

And Variety's the Very Spice of Life.

The North American Review—The Forum—Arena—Harper's—The Atlantic—Scribner's—Fashion and Children's Magazines—Miscellaneous.

Several excellent articles in the North American Review for August have had extended special mention in the BEE'S columns. Among those not heretofore noticed, and to be commended, are: "The New Political Party," by the governor of Oregon, and "Trades-Unions for Women," by Lady Dilke. "Pensions and Patriotism" is devoid of merit because written from the extreme partisan standpoint Commissioner Raum would be sure to take. "Vampire Literature" is a paper of the exaggerated character its author would be likely to imbue it with. Mr. Comstock is very nearly a mono-maniac on the subject of suppression of vicious literature, and the italics and exclamation points he indulges in are in extremely bad taste in such a magazine as the Review.

The Forum for August leads off with three papers on "Russia and the Jew." These are: "Russian Finance, a Bad Investment," by Dr. F. H. Geffcken; "The Persecution: Its Severity and Extent," by I. A. Hourwitch, a Russian Hebrew barrister; "Methods and Places of Refuge," by Baron de Hirsch, the Hebrew philanthropist. The names are a guarantee of the excellence of the papers. Gen. Francis A. Walker, who was superintendent of the census in 1870 and 1880, deals with the problem of "Immigration and Degradation." A topic less momentous but very interesting is well covered in two papers: "A New Route to the North Pole," by Dr. Fridtgof Nansen, explorer of Greenland, and "Will Dr. Nansen Succeed?" by Gen. A. W. Greely, of the Greely expedition. "The Causes of Gold Exports," by George G. Williams, bank president, is another timely topic. Of the paper on Chili the BEE has already made mention. The other articles are good.

If it were not that the reading world has discovered "there is no sex in literature," the August number of "The Arena" would be called a woman's number. It has contributed papers from eight prominent women of America, England and France, and in the editorial department Mr. Flower talks on "The Era of Women." These articles are: "The Unity of Germany," by Mme. Blaze de Bury; "Where Must Lasting Progress Begin?" by Elizabeth Cady Stanton; "My Home Life," by Amelia Edwards; "Individuality in Education," by Prof. Mary L. Dickinson; "Psychic Experiences," by Sara A. Underwood; "A Decade of Retrogression," by Florence Kelley Wischnewetzky; and "Old Hickory's Ball," by Will Allen Dromgoole. Fine photogravure portraits of Mrs. Stanton and Miss Edwards are given. The eclectism of "The Arena" is further demonstrated by the three papers on nationalism, from three points of view: "Should the Nation Own the Railways?" which the author, C. Wood Davis, answers in the affirmative; "The Independent Party and Money at Cost," by R. B. Hassell, and "The Tyranny of Nationalism," by Rev. Minot J. Savage.

An interesting paper on New Zealand opens the August number of Harper's, with very fine illustrations from photographs and special drawings by good artists. One learns a great deal about this almost unknown land from this article, whose wonderful scenery must be admitted challenges first place with our own Rockies. Perhaps the most interesting general article in this number is "Nihilists in Paris," with portraits and illustrations by Parisian artists. "Glimpses of Western Architecture," fully illustrated, will be sharply criticised by our Chicago friends. Besant's third article on London deals with the Ecclesiastic London of the Plantagenets' times. Col. Dodge's papers on "Some American Riders" is concluded. In "What is Inheritance?" D. Andrew Wilson grapples with ancestral traits. Howell's "Imperative Duty" is profoundly interesting, evolving one tragedy and suggesting another. Du Maurier's story and illustrations increase in quaintness. It is a good number.

The August Scribner's is the fiction number, five complete stories, all worthy of the honor of having been chosen for this place, by Thomas Nelson Page, T. R. Sullivan, A. A. Hayes, John J. a'Becket and Annie Eliot. Now and very promising serial is begun by Robert Louis Stevenson and Lloyd Osbourne. The artists whose work adds to the beauty of this number are Albert Lynch, W. L. Taylor, Charles Broughton, W. L. Metcalf. "Piccadilly," by Andrew Lang, is an interesting paper, fully illustrated. Scribner's is only 25 cents a number.

"General Sherman," by John C. Ropes, is lined as the leading article in the August Atlantic. In serial and complete stories this month's number is unsurpassed by any competitor. Edith M. Thomas writes of "Notes from the Wild Garden" as only a poet could write, a beautiful article. "Six Centuries of Self Government" is another of W. D. McCracken's instructive essays on Switzerland. The book reviews of this month's Atlantic should have special mention. They are full, impartial and instructive.

Part 2 of "The American Dictionary of Printing and Bookbinding" is received, from page 49 to page 96, from Blatt (das) German, the leaf, to Chinese printing, illustrated with the characters used in this printing. When completed this valuable work will have 600 profusely illustrated pages. The work, issued in parts, and which the publishers expect to complete within three years, is presented without cost to all subscribers to "The American Bookmaker." Cash sales will not be made until the whole volume is completed, when its cost will be $12 a copy.

The American Bookmaker is in itself well worth its subscription price, which is only $2 a year, mailed free to any address. It is a high-class, independent journal, devoted to all branches of the printing and bookmaking arts, each number with fine, full-page illustrations, as well as a great many smaller ones. With the July number the Bookmaker enters upon its thirteenth volume. Address, for a prospectus of the dictionary, etc., the enterprising publishers, Howard Lockwood & Co., 126 S Duane street, New York city.

In the Presbyterian church the subject set apart for concert of prayer in church work at home for August was "The Mormons," and some very interesting articles on the subject are topics in "The Church at Home and Abroad" for August. The statements are thought by the editor to "encourage the hope that Mormonism as a power hostile to our national institutions has reached its culmination and begun to decline." In relation to the action that was taken at the general assembly in Detroit relative to the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor it is held that the vote was not against recognizing them, as the general sentiment was in their favor, but against "any effort to create a separate Presbyterian organization." This August number has a variety of excellent articles. Published by the Presbyterian board, No. 1334 Chestnut street, Philadelphia.

Goldthwaite's Geographical Magazine for July has for a frontispiece a striking photogravure of "The Devil's War Club," a curiously formed rock in Echo canon, Utah. The first article is on "Geographical Progress in England," and on another page the editor of the magazine says: "Geography is more generally taught, and better taught, in the United States than in England." "The Railroad Development of South America" is an interesting paper, the "Hints to Teachers," are useful, as is the "Record of Geographical Progress." This magazine is published by The Goldthwaites, 190 Fulton street, New York City; $2 a year.

"The Quiver" for August has an interesting table of contents and a large number of carefully executed illustrations. The "Sunday reading" department is full of good things; the serial stories do not flag in interest; the complete story, "Donald's Young Wife," is pure and lovely; the frontispiece, "Sweet Voices," is a thing of beauty. Cassell Publishing Company, 104 6 Fourth avenue, New York City; $1.50 a year.

"The Financier," a journal published every week at 5 Broadway, New York city, is "devoted to all large interests from a financial standpoint," and is very useful to business men. It is $5 a year; single copies 10 cents.

It is a little more than a year since the first attempt was made in this country to establish the university extension system, which is now being generally discussed and is received with favor wherever understood. An indication of the growth of the movement is the establishment of a national organ, "University Extension, a Monthly Journal Devoted to the Interests of Popular Education," of which the first number is on the BEE book table. It is published under the auspices of the American Society for the Extension of University Teaching, Philadelphia, and should be supported by every believer in a high standard of education. Yearly subscription, $3; single numbers, 30 cents.

Home and Fashion Magazines.

The Ladies' Home Journal continues to lead among the magazines specially intended for the home circle. Its excellent and diversified table of contents for August is in itself too long to be here quoted, and mention of a few topics must not be taken as covering all the good things the Journal gives this month. The opening number of Lady Macdonald's articles on "An Unconventional Holiday," illustrations furnished by the author, opens the magazine. The eighth paper on "Unknown Wives of Well-Known Men" gives us a pen and pencil picture of the poet Tennyson's wife. Under the head of "Summer Ills and Summer Dangers" are grouped six common sense articles. What to wear and how to make it, what to eat and how to cook it, are subjects of a dozen good articles. The Ladies' Home Journal should be in every home.

La Mode de Paris for July contains six full page colored fashion plates, descriptions of toilettes for home, dinner, evening, seaside, country and mountain wear. What is fashionable and serviceable to wear, from undervest to outer garments, from chic hats to dainty glove and charming boot, it is the mission of the fashion magazine to tell. La Mode de Paris never fails to achieve its mission.

The same may be said for the Album des Modes. It contains an equal number of plates, just as many illustrations, and an equal amount of good advice. Dressmakers should always have both, and the ladies who sew or have sewing done at home will find their perplexities lightened by the instructions of one or both these magazines.

The American editions of La Mode de Paris and Album des Modes are issued monthly by A. McDowell & Co., 4 West Fourteenth street, New York city; 12 months for $3.50; 6 months for $2; single copy, 35 cents.

For the Children.

The midsummer "St. Nicholas" will make bright eyes grow brighter. The frontispiece alone would do this, Puck and his elves watching the fairies dancing around the magic ring. That he really did, you know, Helen Gray Cone tells on the opposite page,

> Howsoe'er the tale be spread
> Puck, the pranksome, is not dead.

One finds out in this number, too, all about the "Four Sides to a Triangle," and the jingles, sougs, stories and pictures, from cover to cover, are delightful. Good St. Nicholas knew how to make children happy when he concluded to come and see them once a month instead of once a year.

"Our Little Ones," for the nursery, is a little monthly magazine, with a picture for every page, and sometimes two to a page. The reading is easy words in large letters. We do not know a better way to make the little folks learn their letters and love their books than to give them a monthly visitor like this, worth loving. The August number is good. "Our Little Ones" is sent out by "The Russell Publishing Company," 36 Bromfield street, Boston; $1.50 a year.

The girls have a magazine all their very own in Jennie Wren's "Doll's Dressmaker," but we are much mistaken if their brothers do not trade with them to get a chance to read it every month. The get a chance to read it every month. The July number, like the others, has much to say about doll's families, their ailments and their fashions. There is one entire page of seaside styles for dollies, and a page of patterns. All the reading is not about dolls, but it is all interesting for the little folks. How many of the BEE children who see "The Doll's Dressmaker," know about Jennie Wren? The first Jennie Wren, that is, whom the magician Dickens created, "sitting, softly singing, in her bower of golden hair."

An Old Nurse for Children.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup has been used for over fifty years by millions of mothers for their children while teething, with perfect success. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for diarrhœa. Sold by druggists in every part of the world. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind. Twenty five cents a bottle.

Literary Frauds.

About thirty years since a well-known publisher bought a collection of letters alleged to be in the handwriting of Shelley, one of whose oldest surviving friends testified to a belief in their authenticity. They were ushered into the world by a preface from the pen of Robert Browning, but withdrawn a few days after publication upon the discovery that they were made up from articles by Sir Francis Palgrave in the Quarterly Review. A year or two later a volume of letters by Miller was announced as forthcoming, a preliminary certificate of their genuineness having been obtained from his last surviving daughter. Before they left the press they were clearly shown to be spurious.

A notice of the impostures of M. Simonides, whose career has but recently terminated, will bring these examples of fraudulent apocrypha down to our own time. His chief successes are believed to have been gained in duping the authorities of great national libraries by the sale of sham antique manuscripts, but for obvious reasons the particulars of these cases have not been generally disclosed, and the statements on the subject which have appeared in the public journals must be accepted with some reserve. The eminent scholar, Dindorf, is said to have been one of his victims in Germany. It has been stated that the trustees of the British museum were deceived into buying from him a false memorandum addressed by Belisarius to Justinian, but this statement has been since denied. That he sold to Ismail Pasha a forged manuscript of Aristotle, and to a wealthy English peer two spurious letters of Alcibiades to Pericles, for which he obtained high prices, is an assertion more credible, and as yet uncontradicted. His most remarkable failure seem to have been at Athens, where he tried to persuade a committee of twelve scholars that a manuscript of Homer, written on lotus leaves was a genuine relic of very early date. Eleven of the number are said to have been satisfied, "but the twelfth discovered that it was a faithful copy of the text of Homer as published by the German critic Wolff, and that the manuscript reproduced the whole of the printer's errors in that edition."—The Nineteenth Century.

Between the years 1884 and 1888, according to official statistics, 949 soldiers of the Prussian army had committed suicide in the Twelfth Saxon and Thirteenth Prussian regiments. The largest number of suicides occurred in the company stationed in the province of Posen; the next was in that of the Berlin company.

A SALESWOMAN'S REASONS

For Preferring Clerical Work to Domestic Drudgery—Views Tersely Expressed.

"Here is something I wish the Bee would print," said a clerk in a Summit street dry goods house, handing the subjoined from the Chicago Herald. "It expresses the views of the majority of the girls who work in stores and it expresses it well:"

Miss Belle Conyer, who works as a clerk in a dry goods store on State street, is awarded the prize of $20 offered by this department of the Herald one month ago for the best contribution from a girl or woman working in a Chicago store or factory on the subject of why such labor is considered preferable to housework. Miss Conyer's views are extreme and offer plenty of opportunity for consideration and argument, but they are well expressed, and doubtless represent the feelings of those for whom she speaks better than any other contribution received.

Miss Conyer's contribution is as follows: "I would rather work in a store, or even in a factory, than to do housework. Although I am a poor girl and must earn my living, always more or less a slave, I wish to live my own life as nearly as I can. A girl who does housework is a servant and I am a lady. If you wish to understand in the plainest way the reason why I prefer to be a clerk rather than a servant take your dictionary and contrast the definition of those two words. I work for a salary which must appear small to men, but I manage to exist and to enjoy several luxuries, chief of which is my personal independence.

"I would rather work for men than for women. Men have their faults, bad ones, indeed, but one can get along with them by exercising tact and courage. But the faults of the woman of the house are simply unbearable. She is a tyrant, petty but inflexible. If you are her servant, you are the sufferer from her ever-changing moods and the creature of her whims. You work for her in dirt and eat inferior food in an inferior room in an inferior way. She never speaks to you as though you were a human being, and her dogs she treats as though they were socially above you. I don't mean this to be severe, but literal. It is the exact truth. And where she puts you, the world finds you. Its valuation of you is the one it receives from her. The servant girls are the unemancipated slaves of this country. Do you imagine that a few dollars a week would tempt me to join their ranks? I have no slurs to put upon them, but I don't propose to share that which their employers and society insist upon giving them, so long as I can earn bread and butter in a store or factory and be myself, and free. It seems to me that this question is absurd. There is no choice for an American girl who has the capacity to think for a moment between mercantile work and housework for a mistress. The one is hard, but a woman—a real woman—can go through it and come out with clean hands. The other is degrading physicany, mentally and socially. If the housewives hired girls for companions they would get companions, but they advertise for servants, they treat their employes as servants, and they get srvants. Your mistress doesn't want an associate, but a slave. I don't blame her for not desiring the cook at the dinner table with her, or the second girl in the parlor entertaining guests, but I do say that if she demanded cooks who were fit to associate with her and second girls who could entertain her guests, and if she desired her employes to do these things she might get bright American girls to bake her bread and make her beds. But that is the only chance. I am not pleading for social equality. I wouldn't do housework if I could help it, even if the social restrictions were removed. I know that the system of hired help has been a natural growth on each side and that it can't be changed. And I simply thank heaven that business has given the American girl an opportunity of splendidly bettering her condition."

If there ever was a specific for any one complaint, then Carter's Little Liver Pills are a specific for sick headache, and every woman should know this. Only one pill a dose. Try them.

RUBBER HIPS.

They Are the Successors of the Bustle With New York Women.

Although the bustle has been doomed and sunk into obscurity, yet womankind is not satisfied, and a makeshift is in sight, or, rather, it is in use and not in sight. It has taken the form this time of artificially-developed hips.

It is the same old bustle that has reappeared, but it is cut in two, and the two halves moved around, one on each side.

A lady who knows all about such things told me she had one on herself, and when I commented on her increased robustness she laughed, blushed, patted her hips and said:

"It's not me, it's rubber. False hips are the latest craze, and one that is becoming popular with wonderful rapidity. The pads are made of inflated rubber bags. They are not so inconvenient as the old-time bustle, and not much more of a nuisance to wear. Go down Fifth avenue any day and you will be surprised at the number of remarkably broad-hipped women you will meet. They have grown wonderfully stout in the past month."

"Why do they do it?"

"Oh, the great advantage to be gained in appearance is the smaller look it gives to the waist. I don't think there is any other reason. That's quite enough for any woman.

"The fashion has its serious drawbacks, too. Sometimes the pads slip around, and the effect is unpleasant. Again, too, I am always in fear that a pin will puncture one of the things, and that one side of me will go off with a loud report. You can imagine how lop-sided one would look after such an accident. It's horrible to think of."—New York Herald.

DON'T DELAY TO

Stop that cough! Else the bronchial tubes will be enlarged and the delicate tissues of the lungs exposed to injury. No other medicine is so speedily operative in throat and lung troubles as Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. A few doses have been known to break up an obstinate and distressing cough. Sufferers from asthma, bronchitis, croup, consumption, sore throat, and whooping cough find a sure relief in the use of this preparation. It soothes the inflamed membrane, promotes expectoration, and induces repose. Try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Don't be without it in the house. Sallie E. Stone, Hurt's store, Va., writes: "I have found, in my family, that Ayer's Cherry Pectoral was always a certain cure for colds and coughs."

"Five years ago I had a constant cough, night sweats, was greatly reduced in flesh, and had been given up by my physicians. I began to take Ayer's Cherry Pectoral and was completely cured."—Anga A. Lewis, Ricard, N. Y.

Bergen's Asthma Cure Did It.

EVANSVILLE, IND., Dec. 20, 1889.

Dr. J. W. Bergen, Petersburg, Ind.:

Dear Sir—It is with pleasure that I testify to the virtue of your Asthma Cure. I had been a sufferer for years, and had almost come to the conclusion that there was no cure for asthma; but your remedy was recommended and I commenced taking it last June, and have not had an attack since, and I feel that the cure is permanent and complete. I hope that all asthmatics will give it a trial, as I firmly believe it is a specific. Truly yours,

Inasmuch as we have not moved our place of business for more than two years, the expense incident to tearing up and removing every two or three years has been saved. This enables us to give lower prices, better bargains and better goods than any factory concern who uses the necessity for "moving" as a pretext for offering sham inducements. We shall continue through July and August, this year and next, to offer extraordinary inducements to buyers of pianos and organs to patronize our house. We sell the best pianos made, acknowledged and recognized as such, as well as commoner grades, just as offered by our competitors. AGGRESSIVE CHRISTIANS.

Dr. Talmage on How to Work for God.

Keep Abreast of the Times and Work for the Advancement of the Gospel.

Madison, Wis., July 27.—Dr. Talmage preached Sunday morning at a Chautauqua assembly on the banks of Monona Lake, near this city. It is a great gathering of people from all parts of the northwest. His text was Esther iv., 14: "Who knoweth whether thou art come to the kingdom for such a time as this?"

Esther, the beautiful, was the wife of Ahasuerus, the abominable. The time had come for her to present a petition to her infamous husband in behalf of the Israelitish nation, to which she had once belonged. She was afraid to undertake the work, lest she should lose her own life; but her uncle, Mordecai, who had brought her up, encouraged her with the suggestion that probably she had been raised up to God for that peculiar mission.

"Who knoweth whether thou art come to the kingdom for such a time as this?" Esther had her God-appointed work; you and I have ours.

It is my business to tell you what style of people we ought to be in order that we may meet the demand of the age in which God has cast our lot.

If you have come expecting to hear abstractions discussed, or dry technicalities of religion glorified, you have come to the wrong place; but if you really would like to know what this age has a right to expect of you as Christian men and women, then I am ready in the Lord's name to look you in the face.

When two armies have rushed into battle the officers in either army do not want a philosophical discussion about the chemical properties of human blood or the nature of gunpowder. They want some man to man the batteries and swab out the guns.

And now, when all the forces of light and darkness, of heaven and hell, have plunged into the fight, it is no time to give ourselves to the definitions and formulas and technicalities and conventionalities of religion. What we want is practical, earnest, concentrated, enthusiastic and triumphant help. What we need in the east you in Wisconsin need.

In the first place, in order to meet the special demands of this age, you need to be an unmistakably aggressive Christian. Of half-and-half Christians we do not want any more. The Church of Jesus Christ will be better without 10,000 of them. They are the chief obstacle to the church's advancement. I am speaking of another kind of Christian.

All the appliances for your becoming an earnest Christian are at your hand, and there is a straight path for you into the broad daylight of God's forgiveness. You may have come here to-day the bondsmen of the world, and yet before you go out of these doors you may become the princes of the Lord God Almighty.

You know what excitement there is in this country when a foreign prince comes to our shores. Why! Because it is expected that some day he will sit upon a throne. But what is all that honor compared with the honor to which God calls you—to be sons and daughters of the Lord Almighty; yea, to be queens and kings unto God? "They shall reign with him forever and forever."

But, my friends, you need to be aggressive Christians, and not like those persons who spend their lives in hugging their Christian graces and wondering why they do not make any progress. How much robustness of health would a man have if he hid himself in a dark closet!

A great deal of piety of the day is too exclusive. It hides itself. It needs more fresh air, more out-door exercise. There are many Christians who are giving their entire life to self-examination. They are feeling their pulses to see what is the condition of their spiritual health.

How long would a man have robust physical health if he kept all the days and weeks and months and years of his life feeling his pulse instead of going out into active, earnest, everyday work?

I was once amid the wonderful, bewitching cactus growths of North Carolina. I never was more bewildered with the beauty of flowers, and yet when I would take up one of these cactuses and pull the leaves apart, the beauty was all gone. You could hardly tell that it ever had been a flower.

And there are a great many Christian people in this day just pulling apart their Christian experiences to see what there is in them, and there is nothing attractive left. This style of self-examination is a carnage instead of an advantage to their Christian character.

I remember that when I was a boy I used to have a small place in the garden that I called my own, and I planted corn there, and every few days I would pull it up to see how fast it was growing. Now, there are a great many Christian people in this day whose self-examination merely amounts to the pulling up of that which they only yesterday or the day before planted.

O my friends! if you want to have a stalwart Christian character, plant it right out of doors in the great field of Christian usefulness, and though storms may come upon it, and though the hot sun of trial may try to consume it, it will thrive until it becomes a great tree, in which the fowls of heaven may have their habitation. I have no patience with these flowerpot Christians. They keep themselves under shelter, and all their Christian experience is a small, exclusive circle, when they ought to plant it in the great garden of the Lord,so that the whole atmosphere could be aromatic with their Christian usefulness. What we want in the church of God is more brawn of piety.

The century plant is wonderfully suggestive and wonderfully beautiful, but I never look at it without thinking of its parsimony. It lets whole generations go by before it puts forth one blossom, so we have really more heartfelt admiration when I see the dewy tears in the blue eyes of the violets, for they come every spring. My Christian friends, time is going by so rapidly that we cannot afford to be idle.

A recent statistician says that human life now has an average of only 32 years. From those 32 years you must subtract all the time you take for sleep and the taking of food and recreation; that will leave you about 16 years. From those 16 years you must subtract all the time you are necessarily engaged in the earning of a livelihood; that will leave you about eight years.

From those eight years you must take all the days and weeks and months—all the length of time that is passed in childhood and sickness, leaving you about one year in which to work for God. Oh, my soul, wake up! How darest thou sleep in harvest time and with so few hours in which to reap! So that I state it as a simple fact that all the time that the vast majority of you will have for the excessive service of God will be less than one year!

"But," says some man, "I liberally support the gospel, and the church is open and the gospel is preached; all the spiritual advantages are spread before men, and if they want to be saved, let them come to be saved; I have discharged all my responsibility." Ah! is that the Master's spirit? Is there not an old book somewhere that commands us to go out into the highways and the hedges and compel the people to come in?

What would have become of you and me if Christ had not come down off the hills of heaven, and if he had not come through the door of the Bethlehem caravansary, and if he had not with the crushed hand of the crucifixion knocked at the iron gate of the sepulcher of our spiritual death, crying "Lazarus, come forth!"

Oh, my Christian friends, this is no time for inertia, when all the forces of darkness se m to be in full blast; when steam printing presses are publishing infidel tracts; when express railroad trains are carrying messengers of sin; when fast clippers are laden with opium and rum; when the night air of our cities is polluted with the laughter that breaks up from the 10,000 saloons of dissipation and abandonment; when the fires of the second death already are kindled in the cheeks of some who, only a little while ago, were incorrupt.

Never since the curse fell upon the earth has there been a time when it was such an awful, such a cruel, such an awful thing for the church to sleep. The great audiences are not gathered in the Christian churches, the great audiences are gathered in the temples of sin—tears of unutterable woe their baptism, the blood of crushed hearts the awful wine of their sacrament, blasphemies their litany, and the groans of the lost world the organ dirge of their worship.

Again, if you want to be qualified to meet the duties which this age demands of you, you must on the one hand avoid reckless iconoclasm, and on the other hand not stick too much to things because they are old. The air is full of new plans, new projects, new theories of government, new theologies, and I am amazed to see how so many Christians want only novelty in order to recommend a thing to their confidence; and so they vacillate and swing to and fro, and they are useless, and they are unhappy. New plans—secular, ethical, philosophical, religious, cisatlantic, transatlantic. Ah, my brother, do not adopt a thing merely because it is new. Try it by the realities of a judgment day.

But, on the other hand, do not adhere to anything merely because it is old. There is not a single enterprise of the church or the world but has sometimes been scoffed at. There was a time when men derided even Bible societies, and when a few young men met near a hay stack in Massachusetts and organized the first missionary society ever organized in this country, there went laughter all around the Christian church. They said the undertaking was preposterous. And so also the work of Jesus Christ was assailed. People cried out, "Whoever heard of such theories of ethics and government? Who ever noticed such a style of preaching as Jesus has!" Ezekiel had talked of mysterious wings and wheels. Here came a man from Capernaum and Gennesaret, and he drew his illustrations from the lakes, from the sand from the ravine, from the lilies from the cornfields.

How the Pharisees scoffed! How Herod derided! How Caiaphas hissed! And this Jesus they plucked by the beard, and they spat in his face, and they called him "this fellow!" All the great enterprises in and out of the church have at times been scoffed at, and there have been a great multitude who have thought that the chariot of God's truth would fall to pieces is it once got out of the old rut.

And so there are those who have no patience with anything like improvement in church architecture, or with anything like good, hearty, earnest church singing, and they deride any form of religious discussion which goes down walking among every-day men rather than that which makes an excursion or rhetorical stilts.

Oh, that the Church of God would wake up to an adaptability of work! We must admit the simple fact that the churches of Jesus Christ in this day do not reach the great masses. There are fifty thousand people in Edinburgh who never hear the gospel. There are one million people in London who never hear the gospel.

There are at least three hundred thousand souls in the city of Brooklyn who come not under the immediate ministrations of Christ's truth; and the church of God in this day, instead of being a place full of living epistles, read and known of all men, is more like a "dead-letter" post-office.

"But, say the people, "the world is going to be converted; you must be patient; the kingdoms of this world are to become the kingdoms of Christ." Never, unless the Church of Jesus Christ puts on more speed and energy. Instead of the church converting the world, the world is converting the church. Here is a great fortress. How shall it be taken? An army comes and surrounds and cuts off the supplies, and says: "Now we will just wait and shall from exhaustion and starvation they will have to give up."

Weeks and months, and perhaps a year, pass along, and finally the fortress surrenders through that starvation and exhaustion. But my friends, the fortresses of sin are never to be taken in that way. If they are taken for God it will be by storm; you will have to bring up the great siege guns of the gospel to the very wall and when the thundering artillery into line, and when the armed infantry of heaven shall confront the battlements you you will have to give the quick command, "Forward! Charge!"

Ah, my friends there is work for you to do and for me to do in order to succeed in this grand accomplishment! Here is a pulpit, and a clergyman preaches in it. Your pulpit is the bank. Your pulpit is the store. Your pulpit is the editorial chair. Your pulpit is the anvil. Your pulpit is the house scaffolding. Your pulpit is the mechanic's shop.

I may stand in this place and, through cowardice or through self-seeking, may keep back the word I ought to utter; while you, with sleeve rolled up and brow besweated with toil, may utter the word that will jar the foundation of heaven with the shout of a great victory. Oh, that to-day this church may have in it men and that the Lord Almighty is putting upon them the hands of ordination. Every one, go forth and preach the gospel.

You have as much right to preach as I have, or as any man has. Only find out the pulpit where God would have you preach, and there preach. Hedley Vicars was a wicked man in the English army. The grace of God came to him. He became an eminent and earnest Christian. They scoffed at him and said: "You are a hypocrite; you are as bad as you ever were." Still he kept his faith in Christ, and after awhile, finding that they could not turn him aside by calling him a hypocrite, they said to him: "Oh, you are nothing but a fanatic."

That did not disturb him. He went on performing his Christian duty until he had formed all his troop into a Bible class, and the whole encampment was shaken with the presence of God. So Havelock went into the heathen temple in India while the English army was there and put a candle into the hand of each of the heathen gods that stood around in the heathen temple, and by the light of these candles held up by the idols Gen. Havelock preached righteousness, temperance and judgment to come. And who will say, on earth or in heaven, that Havelock had not the right the preach?

In the minister's house where I prepared for college, there was a man who worked, by the name of Peter Croy. He could neither read nor write, but he was a man of God. Often theologians would stop in the house—grave theologians—and at family prayers Peter Croy would be called upon to lead, and all those wise men sat around wonder-struck at his religious efficiency.

When he prayed he reached and seeme I to take hold of the very throne of the Almighty, and he talked with God until the very heavens were bowed down into the sitting room.

Oh, if I were dying I would rather have plain Peter Croy kneel by my bedside and commend my immortal spirit to God than some heartless ecclesiastic arrayed in costly canonicals. Go preach this gospel. You say you are not licensed. In the name of the Lord Almighty, this morning I license you. Go preach this gospel—preach it in the Sabbath schools, in the prayer meetings, in the highways, in the hedges. Woe be unto you if you preach it not.

I remark again, that in order to be qualified to meet your duty in this particular age you want unbounded faith in the triumph of the truth and the overthrow of wickedness. How dare the Christian church ever get discouraged? Have we not the Lord Almighty on our side? How long did it take God to stay the hosts of Sennacherib or burn Sodom or shake down Jericho?

How long will it take God, when he once arises in his strength, to overthrow all the forces of iniquity? Between this time and that there may be long seasons of darkness—the chariot wheels of God's gospel may seem to drag heavily; but here is the promise, and yonder is the throne; and when Omniscience has lost its eyesight, and Omnipotence falls back impotent, and Jehovah is driven from his throne, then the Church of Jesus Christ can afford to be despondent, but never until then. Despots may plan and armies march, and the congresses of the nations may seem to think they are adjusting all the affairs of the world, but the mighty men of the earth are only the dust of the chariot wheels of God's providence.

I think that before the sun of this century shall set the last tyranny may fall, and with a splendor of demonstration that shall be the astonishment of the universe God will set forth the brightness and pomp and glory and perpetuity of his eternal government. Out of the starry flags and the emblazoned insignia of this world, God will make a path for his own triumph, and, returning from universal conquest, he will sit down, the grandest, strongest, highest throne of earth his footstool.

Then shall all nations' song ascend
To thee, our ruler, father, friend,
'Till heaven's high arch resounds again
With "Peace on earth good will to men."

I preach this sermon becau-e I want to encourage all Christian workers in every possible department. Hosts of the living God, march on! march on! His spirit will bless you. His shield will defend you. His sword will strike for you. March on! march on! The last d-potism will fall, and paganism will burn its idols, and Monomedanism will give up its false prophet, and the great walls of superstition will come down in thunder and wreck at the long, loud blast of the gospel trumpet. March on! march on! The besiegement will soon be ended. Only a few more steps on the long way; only a few more sturdy blows; only a few more battle-cries, then God will put out the laurel upon your brow, and from the living fountains of heaven will bathe off the sweat and the heat and the dust of the conflict. March on! march on! For you he time for work will soon be passed, and amid the outflashings of the judgment throne, and the trumpeting of resurrection angles, and the upheaving of a world of graves, and the hosanna of the saved, and the groaning of the lost, we shall be rewarded for our faithfulness or punished for our stupidity. Blessed be the Lord God of Israel from everlasting to everlasting, and let the whole earth be filled with his glory. Amen and Amen.

ENGLISH INNS.

From an English directory have been gleaned a few notes on the signs of hotels and inns, says the New York Mail and Express. And first we have found several "Rising Suns," but no "Setting Sun." Then we meet with a "Schoolboy," but no "Schoolmaster." As to numbers, we come across "Two Dutchmen," "Three Legs," "Four Ashes," "Five Alls," "Six Ringers," "Seven Stars," "Twelve O'Clock," and "Thirteen Bells."

The "New Inn" appears a great many times. The "New Dusty Miller" also turns up, but an "Old Inn" we have not met with. "Old Barrels" we have encountered, "Old Hats," "Our Old Crown," and the "Old Cock." What "Old Number One" means we leave our young readers to imagine, but an "Old Moorcock" and an "Old White Horse" explain themselves. An "Old Red Pump" we should take to be a temperance hotel. "The Brave Old Oak" surely goes to the heart of all, and so does "The Old House at Home," and not less "The Warm Hearthstone."

The prettiest of all the signs we have noticed is perhaps "The Bunch of Roses," though some may fancy "The Eagle and Child" better, or "The Babes in the Wood." If you are a poet and want inspiration, you can sip your ale under the "Shakespeare," the "Milton" or even the "Mount Parnasus." If you are nautical, you can visit the "Ship," or the "Keel," or, if you are inclined for fun, there are the "Jolly Sailors." If a very ancient mariner, there is the "Noah's Ark" at your service, or the "Dove and Rainbow."

The sporting tastes of England come out strongly in the inn signs, especially perhaps in the West Riding of Yorkshire where there are "Racehorses," "Hares and Hounds," "Horses and Grooms," "Greyhounds," "Dogs and Guns," "The Saddle," "The Mare and Foal," and such like in abundance. The clergymen can enter the "Miter," the "Church Steps," or the "Lamb and Flag." Colors play a great part in the signs of these inns. White is the favorite; white harts, white horses, white swans—yea, even white lions—abound. Black stands next in the race; then come red, and bay, blue, gray, brown, green, yellow. The browns are all cows but one, and the yellows are all lions. The bull is often black, but he is never white, nor blue, nor green, nor yellow; but he is fond of allying himself with other people, and he sometimes is in partnership with a bell, or a dog, a mouth, or a sun.

The sign of the "Bull and Butcher" has, they say, a story attached to it which is of some interest. When Ann Boleyn was put to death by her husband, Henry VIII., one of her friends set up a public house under the sign of the "Boleyn Butchered." This continued until the days of Queen Elizabeth, who induced mine host to alter the sign to the "Bull and Butcher." The story flew about, and many loyal publicans sold ale under the sign of the "Bull and Butcher."

Warm weather often causes extreme tired feeling and debility, and in the weakened condition of the system, diseases arising from impure blood are liable to appear. To gain strength, to overcome disease, and to purify, vitalize and enrich the blood, take Ho d's Sarsaparilla.

HISTORY IS AT FAULT.

Robert Morris Did Not Die in a Debtor's Prison.

It is probable that American history, so far as it relates to Robert Morris, a signer of the Declaration of Independence, the companion financier of Hamilton and Gallatin, whose management of the finances of the country made the success of the revolution possible and enabled the young nation to get on its feet and live, will have to be remodeled. Every schoolboy knows that the celebrated Philadelphia patriot was born in England, became a wealthy man in Philadelphia by his business ability, sacrificed his wealth to his country, died in debtors' prison on account of unfortunate land speculations, and was buried in Christ Church yard. It is known that he furnished the $1,500,00 which enabled Washington to carry out his successful campaign against Cornwallis. Several years ago Congress appropriated money to reimburse the heirs of Mr. Morris for this $1,500,000, with interest, the whole amounting to nearly $8,000,000.

The search for heirs and their credentials has brought to light the important fact that Mr. Morris did not die in 1806 in Philadelphia debtors' prison but lived in 1826 on a farm near Farmingdale, N. J., where he was attended by Mary Hurley, his granddaughter, who is herself alive at the age of 94 and lives with her granddaughter at Toms River, N. J. Mrs. Hurley, despite her advanced age, is in full possession of her faculties. She remembers her grandfather perfectly. He died blind during the last part of his life. He often spoke to her of George Washington, of the great struggle for liberty, and the part he (Morris) took in it. He was, it is thought allowed to escape from debtors' prison by some sympathetic keeper who remembered his great services to his country and took this way of showing his appreciation.

Mrs. Hurley had a Bible which was printed in Hartford, Conn., in 1810, in which her grandfather wrote his name. It is almost an exact fac simile of that attached to the Declaration of Independence. Experts who have examined the two signatures say they were undoubtedly written by the same person. He was buried in Leedsville, N. J. Mr. Morris has many descendants in this vicinity.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

EPPS'S COCOA
BREAKFAST.
"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.

A strong solution of extract of licorice destroys the disagreeable taste of aloes. Peppermint water disguises the nauseous taste of Epsom salts. Milk is a good abater of the bitter taste of Peruvian bark, and cloves that of senna. Castor oil cannot be tasted if beaten and thoroughly mixed with the white of an egg. Another method of covering the nauseous taste of castor or codliver oil is to put a tablespoonful of strained orange juice in a wine glass, pour the oil into the center of the juice, then squeeze a few drops of lemon juice upon the oil and rub some of the juice upon the edge of the glass.

Lion tamers are said to have a great fascination for their work. A Frenchman named Bidel, who was nearly killed by a lion four years ago, declared that he would perform no more, but the recent arrival at Neuilly of a lion of extraordinary size and ferocity proved too much for his resolution. A large and fashionable audience assembled to see him beard this brute in his den. He not only entered the cage, but threw away his whip and fork, threatening the lion with his bare hands. He succeeded in affecting his retreat in safety, amid the applause of the multitude, and is now described as a hero instead of a colossal fool.
